You Have a Rich Uncle
Mr. Coolidge Meditates
Tired of Iraq
Mole and Eagle

—By Arthur Brisbane—

SECRETARY MELLON, keeper of the public purse, announces a satisfactory financial year and a surplus of $184,000,000 in Uncle Sam's pocket.

Mr. Mellon reduced by $746,000,000 the public debt, which now totals sixteen billions, one hundred and eighty-five millions. Not much for such a rich country. Business might be better if bonds were not paid off so rapidly.

But Mr. Mellon probably knows best.

In the Chicago Herald and Examiner, Seattle Post-Intelligencer and other newspapers, Calvin Coolidge publishes daily a little article of advice, reflecting earnest meditation.

Henry Ward Beecher, Talmage, Spurgeon will be edified looking down and reading the short, well-written articles, so sound, morally.

Mr. Coolidge's idea, apparently, is first to get us on a high, New England plane of thought, with our minds on our eternal home.

Later, undoubtedly, he will tell the jobless how they can get jobs, realizing that there is no hurry about future bliss, but much hurry about an immediate place on some payroll.

Several years ago, you remember, all the world was excited about mandates. France took one mandate; England, absent-mindedly, swallowing German colonies, took others, including Iraq. An effort was made to "wish" Turkey as a mandate on this long-suffering nation.

Thanks to Providence, we escaped that. To be Kemal's tutor would be a job.

New England tells Iraq, in substance:

"Go in peace, join the League of Nations, run yourself."

"That blessed word, Mesopotamia," ancient name for Iraq, has cost the British many millions of pounds.

All that Britain wants now is to keep, without expense, the right to "British imperial communications and air routes" through the territory of the Tigris and the Euphrates.

At 11:40 a. m. yesterday, in Chicago, the Hunter brothers flew through their 500th continuous hour, having taken fuel from another plane some 190 times.

They were undecided yesterday about staying up until the beginning of next week. One of the two Hunter brothers is a little tired.

He might well be, after staying in the air for 22 days and nights continuously.

Some say it is a contest "between man and machine." It is not.

The machine will be on the junk pile, and the Hunter brothers well and hard at work many years from now.

The remarkable thing is that those two brothers, who used to work in a coal mine, now fly for 500 days through the clouds.

The mole stays under the ground, the eagle stays in the air. Man is both mole and eagle.

Babe Ruth "slammed out" his 31st home run yesterday and is getting on toward 40 years of age. That will interest millions.

Goethe "slammed out" the second part of "Faust" when he was 72. That interests few.

Legs and arms rule now. Brains will control men's interest in the future, say 100,000 years hence.

Frederick R. Coudert, distinguished lawyer, raises an interesting point concerning prohibition, and the statement the law makes "the mere possession of liquor unlawful."

The courts, according to Mr. Coudert, have decided that it is legal to PURCHASE whiskey. Therefore, it must be legal to HAVE it, since it is legal to purchase it, and, therefore, his eminently respectable client who carried whiskey on the hip, and mixed highballs in a restaurant, should not have been arrested.

Wall Street goes along, in a dull way, like one recovering from knockout drops, or a meeting with a hold-up man. The Fourth of July will bring three days' rest, and perhaps more vigor.

Money was cheap, two and a half per cent. Copper was too cheap, 11½ cents at some small smelters.

Farmers that have seen wheat drop below 90 cents a bushel are disappointed in Uncle Sam's efforts to corner the market and conquer old "supply and demand."

Byrd Back Home to Celebrate the 4th

New York, July 3 (AP)—Among those who looked forward today to the Fourth of July as a day of rest was Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

He will receive today the welcomes of Garden City, L. I., and Oyster Bay, and will leave by train tonight for Boston to spend at home the first respite he has had from his round of receptions since he returned from the Antarctic on June 18.

Collier W. C. Atwater Strikes a Submerged Obstacle, Believed From Sunken Pinthis

At almost exactly the same spot off Scituate where the Fairfax sank the Pinthis, the collier William C. Atwater struck submerged wreckage today and damaged her propeller.

The Collier, with a small crew, was bound in ballast from Lynn to Newport News, Va. Ships encountered the submerged wreckage, possibly the sunken tanker, one Gas Buoy 3, off Humarock Beach, in a fog.

Capt. Pearce wireless[ed] news of the accident to Maxwell, Harris, Central st., agents for the owners, Fall River Navigating Co. and the Conyngham, on patrol was sent. The Collier's master said he he could reach Newport News without assistance.

American Broadcast Resumed at 6 P .M.

Owing to mechanical difficulty, affecting wires between the Boston American studio and Station WHDH and the transmitting equipment, it was not possible to give the 11 a. m. or the noonday broadcast today.

WHDH listeners, however, will be able to tune in on the station for the 6 o'clock broadcast this evening, at which time the news flashes and Final Edition of the Air will be presented.

The School Days skit, offered in connection with the Ripley Word Hunt, will also be given with the 6 o'clock broadcast.

REACH 526TH HOUR; PLAN TO STAY UP TUESDAY

Hunters Ask the Judge to Try Suit Winging Beside Them; Threaten to Jump Out

Chicago, July 3—In an unusual request that hearing in a receivership suit against them be held Tuesday in a 21-passenger transport plane, the Hunter brothers today indicated they intended to remain in the air over Sky Harbor for perhaps another week in their record-breaking endurance flight.

At 12:40 p. m. (C. S. T.), 4:40 (E. S. T.) they entered their 526th hour aloft and 105 full hours ahead of the previous record.

S. L. Majewski, flight secretary, sent the following telegram to Judge Feinberg:

"Upon continuance of the matter involving the Hunter boys until Tuesday, I rushed to the airport and communicated your action to them. The note from them commenting on your action follows:

"'Dear Barney—Pleased to receive your report on what happened in Judge Feinberg's court this a. m. Looks like Judge insists upon our being in court Tuesday, we'll have to come down Tuesday afternoon, because we ought to have chance to get some sleep, a bath and a shave. Would like to stay up longer if judge permits. Suggest you get Casey Jones to let the judge hold court in his big Curtiss Condor plane, which will hold 20 passengers. Can talk to judge and jury on radio intercommunicating telephone. Let us know as soon as you can what judge says.'"

Earlier today the Hunter brothers threatened to bring down the plane, unless published reports of Kenneth's desire to quit were corrected.

John Hunter dropped a note today expressing dissatisfaction because of the partial publication of confidential messages between the brothers.

Contents of a note to Walter and Albert Hunter, pilots of the refueling plane, were not made public yesterday, but one of the brothers was quoted as saying that Kenneth, younger of the two aloft, was getting tired and wanted to land "at 520 hours.

"IT'S A DAM SHAME"

John and Kenneth previously had expressed a determination to remain in the air until after July 4. Today's message, signed by John, follows:

"Walt—Al—read this to yourselves."

"Say who in the hell put that slush in the paper about Beans getting worried and nervous. Whoever done it had a dam little to do after him crawling around on this ship night and day trying to bring the record to Chicago. Then somebody put that line of slush in the paper. Can't write a dam thing to you guys without it getting in paper. I only told you that he was hard to wake up and so am I. Take caused plenty of hell between me

HUB IN BID FOR ENDURANCE HOP

St. Louis, July 3 (AP)—Forest O'Brine, who, with Dale Jackson, plans to start an endurance flight July 13 in an effort to better the record of the Hunter brothers, said today Boston, Mass., and Omaha, Neb., were trying to outbid St. Louis for the flight.

The American Legion of Omaha, and a man who said he represented a Boston civic organization made the offers, O'Brine said. O'Brine said both offers would be rejected if St. Louisans contribute $30,000 to defray expenses of the flight.

Three Injured in Detroit Strike

Flint, Mich., July 3 (INS)—Three persons were injured, none seriously, when police and state troopers, swinging riot clubs, broke up a demonstration of 1800 strikers in front of the Fisher Body Company plant here today.

About 5500 workers have walked out. Company officials deny there had been any reduction in wages and say Communists were responsible for the strike.

Rescues Boy in First Swim in Sixty Years

Michael O'Connor, 78, of Parkton rd., Jamaica Plain, who hadn't been swimming in 60 years, was revealed today as the hero of the Jamaica Pond accident of a week ago in which John Rock, 11, of Lamartine st., was drowned and Andrew Malloy, nine, of Columbus ave., was saved.

While O'Connor modestly kept out of the picture, another man was given the credit. The real hero was recorded only "as a man of about 70 who made an attempt to save the boys."

After being urged by his friends for nearly a week, O'Connor last night went to the home of Mr. Malloy and was immediately recognized by the boy as the man who had rescued him.

"Mr. O'Connor is the man that saved me in Jamaica Pond on Thursday, June 26."

This note, written by Andrew Malloy and signed by him and his mother and father, at the request of O'Connor's friends, is his testimonial.

Daniel O'Leary, a friend of O'Connor, and a witness of the accident, said the man who took the credit had no hand in the rescue. The man who dove for the Rock boy's body unsuccessfully, and who, like O'Connor, was too modest to give his name, was Kilden Parkman.

Report "Al" Smith, Tammany in Break

New York, July 3 (INS)—A break between former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Tammany was forecast in some quarters today when it was learned the former executive will not attend the annual Independence Day celebration of Tammany Society.

Nor will he be present tomorrow when a memorial flagpole erected in honor of the late Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, is dedicated.

Free Funeral Among Prizes in Big Meet

NEW NO. SHORE GARRETT CLUE

The search for Oliver R. Garrett, defaulter, swung to the North Shore again today.

Hastily clambering into autos, police and private detectives left for a point further North than heretofore, their destination a camp said to be frequented by underworld characters.

At the same time apartments in the South End and Back Bay were being watched, while a search was made for a convict from Cranston, R. I., wanted for violation of parole. He is a Providence gangster, released a year ago, and said to have been seen with a close friend of Garrett the day the former bond squad czar vanished from Boston.

It was learned at the Governor's office that the state will not interfere with the district attorney's office unless and until local authorities have failed in locating Garrett. Governor Allen has discussed the Garrett default with Atty.-Gen. Warner and the latter was of opinion state action would be premature.

'MR. ZERO' WEDS IN MAINE

Portland, Me., July 3—In little St. Margaret's-by-the-Sea today, Urbain J. Ledoux, or "Mr. Zero," who won fame in Boston by auctioning unemployed "slaves" on Boston Common were married today.

He took as his bride in the Roman Catholic chapel, worshiping place of transatlantic aviators, Miss Mary White of New York, known on the stage as Mary Hall, an associate of E. H. Sothern, Henry Miller and Walter Hampden.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. James J. Mullen, climaxes a courtship of more than five years, during which the actress took an active interest in the philanthropic work of the champion of the downtrodden and jobless.

Miss Josephine Ledoux, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Lucille Ledoux Blackburn, his daughter, attended the bride at this, her fourth marriage.

Last year she appeared in Boston with John Craig's production, but previously she had been here with both Sothern and Henry Miller, as well as other dramatic leaders.

Cool Tonight and Fair Tomorrow

A cool night and a fair holiday with moderate northerly winds will be Greater Boston's weather menu for the big celebration, according to the weather bureau. The temperature today was several degrees below that of yesterday and the brisk morning breeze was welcome after the long stretch of torrid weather.

SKY HUNTERS, PEEVED BY REPORT, THREATEN TO END FLIGHT

FORM 'CLOUD TRUST' FOR BROTHERS

Venture Put on Big Business Basis as Sheriff Is Pacified in Radio War and him. He came dam near jumping out in mute and it wouldn't take a hell of a lot to make me do the same. Now I want this corrected or this ship may land quick. If he was that way anybody had dam little to do after him staying this long."

At 7:40 o'clock (C. D. T.) the city of Chicago had completed the 1340th refueling contact.

BONUS PAY ENDS

The record-breaking brothers were then 100 hours ahead of the previous world's record set last July by Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine in the St. Louis Robin.

Also with the passing of the 2500th hour the offer of an oil company of $100 an hour, now amounting to $10,000, expired. The offer began with the breaking of the previous record.

At 4 o'clock (10:40 E. D. T.) Walter and Albert made a second contact, on the flight, with their brothers, taking them breakfast, mail, newspapers and more fuel. There have been 11 other contacts, including those for foodstuffs.

COURT WON'T HALT FLIGHT.

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court today refused to interfere with the endurance flight for the time being, setting aside until Tuesday the injunction proceedings started yesterday by stockholders who claim to be original owners of the record making ship. The suit called for a receivership and accounting of the City of Chicago Flying Circus.

Counsel for the Hunter Brothers told Judge Feinberg the fliers have a $100,000 contract to appear with the plane in a picture after the present flight. He said various contracts would be handicapped seriously if court action tied them up.

As the flying Hunters soared on beyond the 320-hour mark, their backers went into a huddle, then announced that they had elected a field marshal in the person of Bernard L. Majewski, vice-president of an oil company, who has heretofore been flight secretary.

Majewski, it was announced, will have the powers of a czar. He will pass upon all financial offers, such as those calling upon the brothers to endorse the latest in mattresses, underwear and the like. There have been many such offers. Majewski also will censor communications to and from the endurance plane.

Most important of all, Majewski will endeavor to prevent such unreward scenes as the one created late yesterday when a sheriff appeared on the scene prepared to summon all four of the Hunter brothers and their backers into court.

SHERIFF PACIFIED

The sheriff departed without bothering the endurance fliers, but it was a harrowing affair for all concerned.

Sister Irene Hunter, chief dietitian, laid aside her frying pan, and Brothers Walter and Albert, of refueling ship fame forgot their job to help organize the remainder of the flight along big business lines.

Three things were agreed upon.

First, that an income of around $75 an hour is not to be sneezed at, even if the night air is a bit chilly.

Second, that the City of Chicago simply must stay up until July 4, or until Sunday, when a landing can be made in a spectacular fashion before the largest possible crowd.

Third, that if the plane won't stay up that long, there should be at least 24 hours' notice before it descends, so things can be arranged as well as possible.

All this was transmitted to brothers John and Kenneth in the endurance ship.

The reply of the endurance fliers was a request for a 30-cent jews harp to aid in whiling the hours away.

No More Oceans to Fly, So Cross Goes on West

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—The Southern Cross, battered veteran of long oceanic flight, winged away from the Curtiss-Wright Glenview airport at 6:45 a. m. (C. S. T.) today for Oakland.

The crew of the North Atlantic flight, Capt. J. P. Saul, navigator; John W. Stanage, radio operator, and M. E. Van Dyk, co-pilot, were aboard.

"There are no more oceans to cross," Kingsford-Smith said before the takeoff. "We will fly the Southern Cross to California, where we will decide what to do with her."

Early Growes Had Problems -:- By FRANKLIN COLLIER

THE WEEK-END PROGRAM OF THE COLONISTS, PARTICULARLY THE GROWES, WAS OFTEN THE CAUSE OF MUCH WRANGLING AND DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

Time Flight Sidelights

Sky Harbor Airport, Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Those who believe the Hunter brothers will be eligible for the House of David after their endurance flight will be sadly disappointed. Flight managers said today the brothers shave every other day with water lowered to them in gallon jugs. Moreover, they take daily sponge baths with rubbing alcohol.

* * *

Keeping the fliers in clothes has been a difficult task. Several days ago the brothers were sprayed with oil from their motor and discarded their clothing. Yesterday Kenneth Hunter tossed a package containing his trousers out of the plane.

"Too hot to wear them," he signaled.

Spare trousers were rushed to the plane for chill night flying.

* * *

Among those who have found the flight a test of their own endurance are A. Ostli and George W. Kendell, official observers for the National Aeronautical Association. They have been working 12-hour shifts since the flight started. Both can instantly recognize the sound of the endurance ship's motor, as it whirs over the field at regular 15 minutes' intervals.

Coste on 15-Hour Test Flight for N. Y. Venture

La Bourget, France, July 3 (AP) Capt. Dieudonne Coste and his mechanic, Maurice Bellonte, planning a transoceanic flight to New York within a few days, took the air in their plane, the Question Mark, at 6:32 a. m. (1:32 Boston daylight time) today for a 15-hour test flight.

The plane was said to have 700 gallons of gasolene—not enough for a flight to New York.

2 New York Planes Going After Hunter Boys' Record

New York, July 3 (INS)—Two planes were being put into shape here today for an attempt to smash the Hunter brothers' endurance flight record. They are expected to take the air in a week or 10 days and it is planned to remain aloft for 5 or 10 weeks.

Alternating crews will man the ships, each crew remaining aloft for 72 hours.

New York, July 3 (AP)—Stampeded by the backfiring of an automobile 29 artillery horses galloped wildly through the placid streets of the Bronx today, sending children and adults fleeing for shelter. They finally were rounded up by soldiers and police.

Seventy-eight horses of the 105th Field Artillery were corralled inside a three-foot stone fence in Van Courtlandt park being acclimated to the outdoors in preparation for the annual encampment at Great Head, N. Y.

A passing automobile back-fired repeatedly and the stampede was on.

CERTIFY 357 ON DRY REPEAL

The Cambridge election commissioners, J. Frank Facey, chairman; Harry A. Pennilman secretary; James H. Kelleher and Frederic F. Clauss, have certified 357 names of registered voters voters in Cambridge, out of a total of 400 names, demanding repeal of the Ruby Volstead Act on the petition of the Constitutional Liberty League.

Standing as false and malicious the alleged statements recently made questioning the validity of the signatures, David B. Sibley, executive secretary of the Constitutional Liberty League, and the certification of the names by the board completely exonerates Robert Bloom, 346 Magnolia st., Dorchester, who secured the signatures in a house-to-house canvass.

Mrs. Hettie Bloome of 506 Wales st., Dorchester, today brought a bill in equity in Superior Court for an injunction to restrain Ruby Foran of 118 Riverway from "harboring and entertaining" Henry H. Bloome, husband of the plaintiff.

The Bloomes, married in 1912, have four children. Mrs. Bloome says her husband and the defendant dine together and go out on auto rides. The bill is returnable July 7.

HOUSE PENSION RATES FOR VETS AGREED UPON

Senate Conferees Yield to a Lower Scale After Plea From Hoover

Washington, July 3 (AP)—The House today adopted the conference report on the veterans' pension bill and only Senate approval is needed for final congressional action.

Washington, July 3—After a written plea from President Hoover, Senate and House conferees today agreed on the lower pension rates for World War veterans provided by the House bill.

The President talked at breakfast with Senators Watson of Indiana and Reed of Pennsylvania, Republican conferees, then sent a letter to Senator Watson, read at the conference.

The Senate conferees gave in to House demands to slash from the pension bill the new $10 to $60 compensation rates inserted by the Senate two days ago, replacing the House $12 to $40 rates.

Other major provisions relinquished in favor of the House include that to compensate veterans whose disabilities were incurred by their own "misconduct," and those who paid no income tax.

President Hoover informed leaders he would call the Senate into special session next Monday for consideration of the London Naval Treaty, if Congress adjourned tonight.

4 Pantages Guarded After Death Threats

Los Angeles, July 3 (AP)—Police today guarded the home of Alexander Pantages, theater magnate under sentence of 1 month, following his receipt yesterday of a threatening note.

The note, signed "The Committee of Six," instructed Pantages to pay $150,000 or he, his wife and two daughters would be killed. Police said they believed the note was sent by a crank.

R. I. Police See Murder in Mystery

Free at Last!

AFTER 26 YEARS in State's Prison, Joseph A. Hastings, who slew the woman who spurned his love, is free through executive clemency and has sailed for Ireland to reshape his life. Staff photo.

With 26 years of State Prison behind him and the vision of home ahead, Joseph A. Hastings, "lifer" pardoned yesterday, was on the high seas, Ireland-bound, today. He sailed yesterday on the S. S. Iacona a few hours after walking out of prison a free man, accompanied by Chairman Frank A. Brooks of the parole board.

Before he left he visited Governor Allen and told him he would pray for him every remaining day of his life.

"Liberty is God's greatest gift," he said. "I wouldn't give up 24 hours of it again to get even with the worst enemy I ever had."

STATE PROBES WORCESTER TRAIN CRASH

Railroad Officials Claim Switch Caused Accident That Injured Five

Worcester, July 3—State officials began an investigation of the crash between a switching engine and a Bar Harbor special filled with boys and girls, in which five persons were injured.

The injured were in the third car of the "Prep Special," running as the second section of the Bar Harbor express from Philadelphia, and carrying youngsters from 6 to 16 years, some parents, relatives and prep schoolmen.

This car was overturned when struck by the switching engine driven by William Bennett of 37 Somerville ave., Worcester.

Inspectors John H. Parant and Harold Bean of the department of public utilities, who are investigating, were told by railroad officials the switch was set wrong for Bennett.

Most of the children were asleep at the time, and except for a shaking up, when those in the overturned third car were thrown from their berths, escaped without injury.

The injured, who were removed to Worcester city hospital were: Mrs. Ida R. M. Thomson, 70, of Lutherville, Md., hip injuries; Sarah Spencer, 13, Drexel Hill, Pa., scratches and bruises; Miss Evelyn Why of Philadelphia, camp instructor, scratches and bruises; John Reynolds, 23, of Lowell, flagman, wrenched back and fractured rib, and Albert Maravin, 28, of Philadelphia, porter, injured left leg.

Sasso, Italy, July 3 (AP)—Fifteen persons were killed today and many injured in a collision of a train from Milan with a freight train, eleven miles from Bologna. The accident happened at 6:40 a.m.

DOCTOR VICTIM OF BANDITS

and talked with the caller, a man about 30, well dressed in a light suit, who repeated the story he had told Mrs. Berry.

The doctor has two patients named Ellis and inquired which was the sufferer. His caller replied that it was the mining engineer.

Although he could not recall that either Ellis of his acquaintance was a mining engineer, Dr. Berry drove with the stranger to the Hotel Colonial and accompanied him to a sixth floor room.

LOOKS INTO PISTOL.

There in bed lay a large, fair-haired man, also about 30. Although he did not recognize him, Dr. Berry shook hands with him and, bending over the bed, inquired the nature of his trouble.

"Look around, Doc," said the smaller man, standing behind him.

Dr. Berry turned and gazed into the barrel of an automatic pistol.

Both men then attacked him and threw him on the bed, binding his feet and wrists with towels and dampening another with the anaesthetic. This they tied about his face.

While he still struggled and was losing consciousness, he heard the larger man ask permission to "give him the blackjack," he said.

The other objected and his objections ruled.

It was about 12:30 when the doctor entered the hotel and about 1:30 when he recovered consciousness, alone in the room. He struggled to a sitting position, swung his feet off the edge of the bed and hopped—his ankles tied—to the door.

There the towel about his ankles loosened and, backing to the door knob, he managed to turn it and open the door.

Issues Warning on Canoeing Dangers

Stressing the danger of canoeing to those unfamiliar with the cranky little craft as well as to the careless, Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote today called attention of the thousands of people going to the country or seashore for the holiday to the many drownings that have saddened many weekend holidays.

Ogden Mills in Paris On Mystery Mission

Paris, July 3—A special investigation of double taxation and tariff matters is believed to be the reason for the visit to France of Ogden L. Mills, under-secretary of the treasury in the United States cabinet, en route to Paris aboard the liner Bremen.

No official confirmation of the belief could be obtained. All queries drew the answer that Mills is to come here solely for a vacation.

Ogden L. Mills

The rumor persisted in view of fact that Washington Mills has been concerned with the development of negotiations to eliminate double taxation. These fell through recently because it was felt that the proposed draft treaty was inadequate.

Sen. Smoot and Bride On Wedding Tour

Salt Lake City, July 3—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah and his bride, the former Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets, are honeymooning today following their marriage in the Latter Day Saints' Temple by Heber J. Grant, president of the church.

The senator's first wife died a year ago, and Mrs. Sheets has been a widow since 1918.

Following a tour of the state, they plan to go to San Francisco about the middle of the month. From there they will sail for an extended honeymoon in Honolulu.

Elinor's "Shorts" Thrill Airport "Grease Monkeys"

New York, July 3—The common or garden variety of aviator or aviatrix may still cling to the traditional jumper, leather coat and sturdy boots, but the up and coming air traveler this summer will have to be content if Elinor Smith, Long Island's most famous girl airplane enthusiast, has her way about it.

Elinor Smith

Elinor appeared at Roosevelt Field wearing the very latest in "shorts." Hard boiled greasy monkeys working on powerful OX-5's gasped for breath, but their comments didn't phase her a bit.

Fokker, Air King, Quizzed by New York "Air Cops"

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 3—Anthony H. G. Fokker, world renowned airplane designer, stayed on the ground today following a pilot's renewal license from Washington.

Fokker came here to witness the departure of the Southern Cross, which he designed. He was elated at the way the heavily loaded ship behaved on the takeoff, that he jumped into a small sport plane, took to the air, skimming close over hangars.

Anthony H. G. Fokker

When he came down he was questioned by Department of Commerce inspectors, who learned that he had allowed his license to lapse by failing to take the last periodic physical examination. The examination was then made at Mitchel Field.

MOVE RAPPED AS TYPICAL GESTURE

Comes Too Late to Do Any Good, Political and Military Leaders Declare

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Berlin, July 3—The offer of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to allow an international court martial to determine his personal responsibility for the sequence of events which led up to the World War, coming in the midst of the great national celebrations over liberation of the Rhineland, met with little sympathy among political and military leaders here today.

Most members of a distinguished group of leaders interviewed by International News Service expressed downright opposition to the proposal as a futile "typically Wilhelmesque" gesture. Virtually all agreed the proposed international trial would be of no benefit whatever to Germany.

OFFER COMES TOO LATE

News of the ex Kaiser's desire to stand trial was brought to New York by Prophet Bigelow, American historian and publicist, on his return from Doorn, Holland, where he visited Wilhelm at his place of exile.

It is generally felt here that it is too late for the court-martial to do any good. The ex-Kaiser rejected the proposal when urged upon him repeatedly by his generals and friends before the Dawes and Young plans were put into operation, and, now, through his long quiescence, the ex-Kaiser has eliminated himself from Germany's life while events have rolled far beyond him.

The former Crown Prince, who usually opposes his father in questions of policy, and General von Mackensen, his staunchest defender, refused to comment on the plan. General Erich von Ludendorff, Von Hindenburg's right-hand man in the war, contented himself with saying it was "a matter for the Kaiser himself to decide."

WILL RESULT IN NOTHING

A very emphatic declaration on the subject was made by Siegfried von Kardorff, vice-president of the Reichstag and a presidential hope.

"The Kaiser's statement is interesting," Von Kardorff said, "but will result in nothing. The war guilt question is now without decisive importance in practical politics."

"Germany will not think much of this international court proposal," said Dr. Hans Bell, one of the two German signers of the Versailles Treaty. "We already repudiated the extorted war guilt confession and history already has blasted it."

Rudolf Breitscheid, Socialist party spokesman:

"The Kaiser's offer is without practical importance. Although nobody accused the Kaiser of personal guilt, his actions helped create an atmosphere which made war possible."

NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Fritz Ebert, son of Germany's first president:

"That is a typical Wilhelm declaration, the like of which no one takes seriously any more. Why didn't he speak up before?"

"We would welcome it if the Kaiser could prove his innocence before an international court," he said.

Natives Blow Conch Shells to Stop Earthquake

Calcutta, Bengal, July 3 (AP)—Calcutta, shaken twice before dawn by earthquakes, resounded for hours to the blasts of conch shells, blown by Indians to propitiate their serpent goddess, Bashuky.

It is their belief that the goddess, who holds the universe upon her head, sometimes changes her position, thus causing an earthquake which is supposed to be a punishment for the sins of the people. She is especially fond of conch shell music, which lessens her anger.

After the first quake, which threw residents out of their beds and broke down telephone communication, the populace rushed into the streets, many blowing the shells, which failed to prevent a second quake later. There were no casualties.

Shillong, Assam, India, July 3 (AP)—An earthquake of great intensity occurred here at 2:38 a. m. today, followed by a series of shocks of moderate force at two-minute intervals.

Reports received from several towns along the meter guage section of the Eastern Bengal railway said that serious damage had been done to bridges.

VETERAN QUITS CUSTOMS JOB

Eighty-two years of age and with 57 years of continuous service in the customs behind him, Stephen Decatur Salmon retired today as deputy collector in the division of accounts at the Customs House.

By Collector W. W. Lufkin and in the presence of about 100 fellow workers, he was presented with a purse of gold.

A native of the West End, Mr. Salmon, in his youth, was a famous oarsman with the West End Boat Club. He will spend the remainder of his life on the Roxboro farm which he has been his home in recent years.

SALMON, PEAS MENU HIGHER

The traditional Fourth of July dinner of salmon and peas comes a bit higher this year than last, with the peas—or lack of them—responsible.

Eastern and western salmon abound in the market, but peas are not so plentiful. Maine peas are $1.50 a peck and the choicest from Mexico $1.75, both 50 cents higher than on July 3 last year. Green beans are available at 9 cents a pound.

Salmon prices are about the same as last year, 35 to 45 cents a pound, choice cuts of eastern at the top price.

Builder Demands Fees for Sewer

Several years ago Judge Walter H. Southwick, of Nahant, built a private sewer in Maple and Sherman aves. Persons who purchased property thinking the town put in the system received a rude shock yesterday when the judge demanded $35 entrance fee, threatening to cut them off from the use of the sewer.

The property owners have the sympathy of the selectmen who, while admitting the judge built the sewer, believe that the streets are practically public ways and the sewers as well.

Prince of Wales Loses Hat and Tie

West Hartlepool, Eng., July 3 (AP)—The Prince of Wales lost a panama hat and a necktie playing golf with Lord Londonderry, Lord Castlereigh and Capt. Aird here yesterday. While the Prince said "it doesn't matter, really," he hopes it will be found. A New York label in it should help.

The Prince took off his hat and tie and handed them to his caddie, Andrews, but near the end of the round Andrews couldn't find them. Scores of persons joined in the search before the Prince was aware of his loss.

ASKS ACTION ON NEW FIRE LAW

A letter requesting that he consider the advisability of putting into effect the provisions of the law of 1925, whereby apparatus may be sent to nearby cities to help putting out fires, with the pension rights of the firemen protected, was today sent to Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin by State Fire Marshal Joan W. Reth.

Under the 1925 law, cities and towns may authorize their fire apparatus to respond for help from neighboring communities. Prior to that time, Reth said, there was some question as to pension rights of firefighters injured outside their own cities.

The marshal pointed out that Boston has an arrangement for mutual aid with nearby cities and towns, but believes the 1925 act, extending safeguards, should be accepted by the city.

Mrs. William A. Ryan Is Honored by Mayor

Mayor Curley today honored Mrs. William A. Ryan of Dorchester, wife of the founder of the World League of Cities, by appointing her official conveyor of Boston's greetings to Newport, R. I., water carnival and boat races.

It was the first official recognition of her part in Ryan's activities, conducted at his own expense the last few years, to make Boston's Tercentenary celebration a success.

When her husband's efforts were being unofficially frowned upon and even ridiculed, she was his chief supporter.

Since the city took official cognizance of Ryan's efforts, which have resulted in visits from several English city mayors for Tercentenary exercises, she has persistently remained in the background until honored today by Mayor Curley.

Boys and Girls Must Pay to Fish

The ever growing cost of government reaches out on August 1 to embrace a new class of contributors.

On that day, under a law passed by the last Legislature, boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 18 must get a license if they care to indulge in the sport of fishing, at a cost of $2.25 per. Under 15 years, they are exempt.

Heretofore, minors under the age of 18 were allowed the privilege without charge.

CURLEY DON'TS FOR FOURTH

Mayor Curley, in his appeal for a safe and sane Fourth of July, laid special stress on practices which have taken heavy toll among children.

Carrying fireworks in trousers' pockets so that they protrude is to be avoided, because there is always the possibility they may be ignited and cause serious burns.

Exploding firecrackers in bottles is to be especially banned, for the explosion may break the bottle and hurl small bits of glass into childish eyes.

Above all things, children should not hold fireworks in their hands while setting them off. This practice has resulted in greater loss of fingers and eyes than any other.

Another important "Don't" in the mayor's list was in connection with the common custom of throwing firecrackers. Many unsuspecting children and adults have been injured in this way and autoists, especially, are apt to suffer from the practice.

Dynamite caps, sparklers and toy pistols are all dangerous and should be handled as carefully as firearms.

Mayor Curley has asked the cooperation of all residents of Boston, particularly boys and girls, in achieving a safe and sane celebration.

Medford Man Held

William Josey, 38, of Jerome st., Medford, was arrested last night after he is alleged to have struck Mrs. Anna Nichiarico with a shovel.

Fireworks Use or Sale Banned by Fire Marshal

For the information of those who would save themselves from being prosecuted for the illegal use of sale of firecrackers, State Fire Marshal John W. Reth has compiled a list of those banned in Massachusetts.

Chinese firecrackers with label "Caution, do not hold in hand after lighting." Length of firecracker, 2 inches. Diameter ¾ inch. Weight of explosive charge, 2.7 grains.

Firecracker with Chinese inscription on label with words in English, "National firework," also "Caution do not hold in hand after lighting." Length, 1¾ inches. Diameter, ½ inch. Weight of charge 3 grains.

Firecracker manufactured by National Fireworks Co. Reads "Two-inch Salutes, Electric Dragon." Length 2 inches, diameter ¾ inch, weight of charge 9.8 grains.

Firecracker made in China by Wink Yuen, marked "Budha Brand," and with words "Do not hold in hand after lighting." Length 1⅞ inches, diameter ¼ inch, weight of explosive charge 2.7 grains.

Hitte Thunder Flash Cracks," made in Taiwan, China for Hitt Flashcracks Co., Seattle, Wash. Length 1¾ inches, diameter ½ inch, weight of explosive 8.5 grains.

3 IMPERILLED BY HUB PLANE

Canadalgua, N. R., July 3 (AP)—Swerving his car into a ditch, John E. Lamb, wife and young daughter, of Cleveland, O., escaped injury today when an airplane out of fuel, made a "dead stick" landing on a concrete road near here, head on to the rapidly moving auto.

J. T. Green, of Buffalo, another motorist, who talked with the aviator, said the latter revealed himself as a Bostonian, flying from Boston to Chicago, who had passed his proposed refueling point at Geneva unknowingly.

Suffering only from slight shock, the Lambs proceeded to Geneva after their auto had been hauled from the ditch. They expected to continue on to New York after repairs.

Brookline Tax Rate Up 90 Cents to $19.90

Brookline's tax rate, announced today, is $19.90, an increase of 90 cents over last year, due, it was explained, to high town expenses, and about $100,000 rise in metropolitan taxes.

IDENTIFY GANG SLAYER OF LINGLE

Witness of Chicago Murder Points Out George Hurley, Gangster, as Murderer

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—The Tribune today said its reporters had obtained information that George Hurley, a Moran gangster, had been identified by a witness of the slaying as the man who actually shot Jake Lingle, a reporter, several weeks ago.

According to the Tribune witness, a man from Michigan, whose name has been kept secret, turned ashen when shown a picture of Hurley, and exclaimed: "That's the killer." This man also identified a suit of clothing found in Hurley's room at the Commonwealth hotel as the one worn by the assassin.

Deputies of Jo Rathbun, special state's attorney, prosecuting the Lingle inquiry, denied that Hurley had been identified, but refused to comment on whether Hurley's name had become involved in the investigation. Red Forsythe has been named as the man who fired the fatal shot.

The law and the outlaw hunted Jack Zuta, the gangster, today.

HUNT GANGSTER

If the law found him first it meant to put some pointed questions to him concerning Jake Lingle's murder, if the outlaws found him first—then it was quite likely that Zuta never would be able to answer questions for anybody. The law had Zuta at bay at 3 o'clock day night, but let him go.

With Frank Nitti, original owner of the Lingle death gun, under indictment for the murder and arrest in Los Angeles, a new name today came into the investigation—that of Alfred Newberry, Moran gang chief. The Lingle murder investigators have learned that Newberry was present in the Illinois Central subway at the time Lingle was slain.

GIRL MINISTER AGAIN MISSING

Albany, July 3 (INS)—Word was received here today that Aimee Semple Imhoff, 27-year-old minister of Newcastle, Pa., who once before had disappeared for a week and a half, is missing again. Has disappeared again. The girl also was reported here in April after she had been strangely missing for some weeks.

"When the girl's mother came here last week to take her home she told me her daughter was not well and she planned to take her to a sanitarium," said Police Chief Daniel Carroll.

"In my message the girl threatened to kill herself."

Imhoff has been engaged in Y. W. C. A. work at Franklin, N. H., but has not been here since last May, Chief Smurl said.

Vermont Population 359,183; Gains 6762

Burlington, Vt., July 3 (AP)—A population of 359,183 for the State of Vermont was reported by census officials today, a gain of 6762 since 1920.

The most striking loss in the decade was in Rockingham, 967 or 1000, blamed on the closing of industrial plants.

Thompson Left $85,000,000

White Plains, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—The will of Edmund Wallace Thompson, copper magnate, disposing of an estate of an estimated $85,000,000 value largely to relatives and employes, was filed today for probate.

Won't Take Year's Pay for Only Six Months' Work

Middletown, Ct., July 3 (INS)—"I haven't the nerve to draw $3500 for 12 months and only give the city six months of actual service," declares John S. Roth, in resigning as city tax commissioner today.

Roth resigns, effective next December, after holding the office since August, 1928, when he replaced a board of assessors.

AIRPORT GIVES WELCOME TO CAPT. HOYT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Taking up his duties as inspector for the New England district for the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, Capt. R. D. Hoyt was welcomed to Boston Airport today by the entire group of commercial operators. Hoyt is replacing Stuart Morgan, who has been transferred to New York to await further orders.

Due to the increased amount of business in the inspection of pilots and planes on the local airport, Hoyt will make his home in Winthrop, and devote more than a third of his time to local flying activities.

While he is working out of the New York office of the department, Hoyt has eastern Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont to take care of, and has an office in the Custom House.

Three new pilots were given their tickets on the first day of Hoyt's detail. Two of the three were private licenses and the third was a transport ticket. William S. Forbes, of Hamilton, and Robert L. Rice, Jr., of Brookline, were the private pilots who were O. K'd by the new inspector. Guy "Gus" Hann, of Wollaston, was conferred the highest honor of the federal government, the transport license.

While this is a start only, Hoyt states that the amount of work already piled up in front of him will keep him busy the remainder of the week. He will then make a swing around his district.

A flying trip to New Bedford to investigate the crash of Bert Hill's Argo, in which young Dumas was killed, was made by Hoyt, and upon his return, he refused to give any information as to his findings, declaring that he would file a report to the department in Washington, and that it would be confidential until such time as the officials down there make it public.

Hoyt's home is in Tampa, Fla., and he was trained during the war in the air corps, rapidly being promoted to the rank of captain.

Arriving at Boston Airport on the noon tri-motored plane from New York, Maj.-Gen. John F. O'Ryan, head of Colonial Air Transport, was met by Traffic Manager Walds H. Brown, O'Ryan was accompanied by Victor Vernon of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

The hours between his arrival at noon and the departure at 4:30 were spent with Brown, inspecting the Colonial building at the airport here and giving the entire airport the once over.

Gen. O'Ryan did not state his findings, but climbed aboard the Sikorsky amphibian to be whisked back to Gotham by Owen O'Connor, first pilot.

The flying salesman who visited Boston a month ago and left his airplane here, is again in town. He is Glenn Poyzer, a demonstration pilot for the Davis Airplane Co., of Richmond, Ind.

While he brought one of the Davis pursuit planes with him last time to be promptly sold by Walter Rogers, local dealer for the ships, Poyzer arrived in a 65-horsepower LeBlond-engined job.

An immediate trip to New Bedford for a demonstration was made, with Rogers occupying the front seat. Announcement of a sale will be made in a few days, Rogers declared.

Tercentenary Pilgrimages—No. 22

THE BELLINGHAM-CARY HOUSE, CHELSEA

THE TABLET upon this old mansion reads:

"In this portion of the old town of Chelsea, which was known as Winnisimet, Samuel Maverick, in 1624, planted the first permanent settlement in Massachusetts Bay territory. The ancient house was built by Governor Bellingham in 1659; enlarged and beautified by Samuel Cary in 1791. Here Washington placed the last outpost of the left wing of the Continental Army besieging Boston."

SUMMER HOME

This tablet, with such a concise history of the edifice, was erected by the Chelsea Tercentenary committee in 1924, for Chelsea is older than Boston by six years.

Governor Richard Bellingham bought the land from Samuel Maverick about 1635. Upon building the large and roomy house, he made it his summer residence. Traveling being somewhat more difficult in those days, he had a winter residence in Boston, on the land where Pemberton sq. is now located. A secret passageway in the walls from garret to cellar makes this building unique in the northern states.

Surrounded by modern dwellings which close in upon it, it stands upon a slight eminence as if looking down upon the transient existence of its neighbors. For the Bellingham-Cary house is in excellent repair and can easily outlast any in its vicinity. It is a landmark of real value.

MARRIED HIMSELF

Richard Bellingham came from England in 1634, becoming a prosperous holder of lands. In 1641 he was appointed governor. Ten years he served in that office and 13 as deputy governor. A romance, which was broken, is said to have been the cause of his sojourning to America, but he never referred to it. He married Penelope Pelham and because he performed the ceremony himself, he was prosecuted.

He was deputy judge and found himself "not guilty."

Pelham, N. H., was called after the family of his wife, whose brother was the first bursar of Harvard College. A sister was hanged in 1656, for a witch, being the second of that group.

The Carys married into the family about 1749 and since then, the old domicile has been called the Cary house as well as the Bellingham.

Samuel Cary enlarged the dwelling in 1791, so that it appears now as of that period.

GIRL SAVES HER MOTHER, AFIRE

Finding her mother enveloped in flames, Jenie Crocetti, 16, probably saved her life today in the kitchen of their home at 127 Webster ave., East Boston, when she stifled the fire with a blanket in spite of burns which she herself received.

An explosion occurred as Mrs Jennie Crocetti was bleaching clothes with a chemical over a gas range. The flames leaped to her clothing and she screamed for help as she tried unsuccessfully to beat out the fire. Her daughter heard her cries from another part of the house.

Mother and daughter were given first aid treatment by Laddermen Thomas Pellagrine and John Fenton. Mrs. Crocetti was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital later. She is expected to recover.

FOUR BURNED, CHILD DYING

Springfield, July 3—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Teel and their two children were burned, one of them probably fatally, when fire destroyed their cottage home at 12 Moulton st., near the East Longmeadow line today. Viola Teel, 8, was so badly burned about the face, arms, legs and body that her life was despaired of in Wesson Memorial Hospital.

Teel, his wife and Charles, 5, were less seriously burned and were given medical attention at the house of a neighbor.

Mrs. Teel was filling a lighted oil burner in the kitchen when she spilled it and the kerosene fired into a blaze and spread rapidly.

He Swallows Swords, but a Dime? Well, That Gags Him

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Wynan King swallows swords. That's his business. But he doesn't do so well with dimes.

He rushed into the County Hospital yesterday and demanded that surgeons do something at once to save his life. He said he had swallowed swords most of his life without trouble, but that the dime was different.

The surgeons finally removed it, and King announced he would stick hereafter to sabers and such.

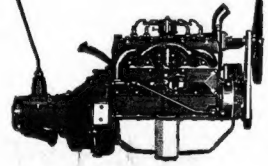
THE VALUE of SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy



THE GOOD PERFORMANCE of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

How I coaxed him to eat

"ONCE I was worried. Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and was beneficial to the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

It is a known fact that when a man's system gets "run-down," he hasn't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play. It is dangerous to let the red-blood-count remain below normal.

It is natural to expect, when you get your blood cells up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, and those skin troubles to disappear. You should get hungry again, sleep soundly, and firm flesh take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong and your nerves become steady.

You owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

S.S.S.

S.S.S. is daily helping people to regain their strength. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It promotes a keen appetite, gives vitality to the body, clears the skin and wards off disease. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

HOLIDAY CROWD LEAVES CITY FOR RESORTS

By train, air and water routes thousands quit the Hub today for the week-end and New England and Canadian vacation resorts reported a big influx of visitors.

The North and South stations were thronged with men, women and children outward bound, and at the airport large numbers were arranging for fast trips west, north and south.

The steamship line offices were swamped with requests for reservations, most of which had been disposed of long in advance.

At the East Boston airport officials of the Colonial Air Lines and the New England and Western Air Lines stated that it was doubtful that enough airplanes could be obtained to handle the crowds that gathered hourly hopeful of obtaining seats on each successive trip.

The exodus of vacation-bound persons from the North Station was the greatest in the history of the North Station. Every through train bound either to Maine, New Hampshire and the Maritime Provinces was running in two and three sections.

New Haven and Boston & Albany through trains were running in two sections or with extra cars.

WATER FAMINE IN WAKEFIELD

Wakefield is suffering from a water famine. The situation is so grave the use of hose and fountains on lawns has been prohibited.

Crystal Lake the town's water supply is rapidly going dry, and it is estimated that 45 days will exhaust it completely.

The Wakefield water board has decided to tap Lake Quannapowit the large body of water in the center of the town, but grave fears are expressed as to whether the work can be done in time.

The water board has decided it will be much less costly to tap Lake Quannapowit than to join the Metropolitan water system. The latter it is estimated, would cost in excess of $300,000, while the former can be done for about $150,000.

Work is to be started immediately on the construction of a pipe line from the upper lake to the filtration plant on the lower, or Crystal Lake, together with a small pumping station at Lake Quannapowit.

A dam is also to be built at the southern end of Crystal Lake to retain the supply in that body of water.

Night Club Queen Given Six Months

London, July 3 (AP)—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, celebrated as London's "Night Club Queen," whose two sons-in-law are peers, today was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and fined heavily for selling intoxicants without a license. The term will be Mrs. Meyrick's third. Many fashionably gowned society women were in court when sentence was imposed.

Mrs. Meyrick is proprietor of the "Forty-three Club," which was raided Monday by the police. The names of patrons were taken and her aides were questioned at Bow st. station.

Buffalo to Play Montreal Tonight

Buffalo, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Beneath a 100,000,000 candle power battery of floodlights the Buffalo club of the International League will clash with Montreal here tonight in the first night baseball game in the East.

Wiring of the stadium was completed yesterday and Manager Jim Cooney of the Bisons took his men out under the floodlights last night for their first experience of playing under artificial light.

Grab Man Who Jumps on Wales' Auto

Sunderland, Eng., July 3 (AP)—When the Prince of Wales arrived here today to fill several engagements, an unidentified man jumped on the running board of the royal car as it proceeded through the streets crowded with shipyard workers.

A score of men leaped forward and pulled the offender off before he could make his intention clear. He was handed over to the police for questioning. The Prince scarcely noticed the incident.

Chinese in Hub Issue Tercentenary Directory

In observance of the tercentenary, Chinese merchants of Boston are issuing the first Chinese directory ever published here, to make its appearance July 15.

A story of the tercentenary in Chinese, with photographs of Governor Allen, Mayor Curley, the State House and City Hall are among the features of the booklet.

POPE BESTOWS RED HATS ON 5 CARDINALS

Vatican City, July 3 (AP)—Five new cardinals received their red hats this morning from the Pope in a public consistory. The entire curia of cardinals resident in Rome, and a number of visiting cardinals were present.

The ceremony took place in the Hall of Benedictions over the front balcony of St. Peter's, where a throne had been erected for the Pope.

The cardinal vice-chancellor of the Catholic church, standing before the high altar, asked each new cardinal to swear loyalty to the constitution of the Sacred College. Each of the new wearers of the purple swore solemnly upon the gospel the oath in Latin.

POPE ON HIS THRONE.

Meantime the other cardinals moved to the Sala Regia, preceded by the Sistine choir papal guards, acolytes, cross bearer, bishops and other prelates.

After the cardinals came the Pope, wearing his red cape borne aloft on the sedia gestatoria, supported by 12 strong sediarii, or carriers, and flanked by noble guards.

The chanting of the Sistine choir was drowned by cheering and applauding. The sediarii carried the pontiff to the throne.

Each of the new cardinals, after entering, bowed three times before the pontiff, then kissed the Pope's ring and toe. First came Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, then Cardinal Lene Da Silveira Cintra, Cardinal Raffaelo Rossi, Cardinal Serafini and the French Cardinal Achille Lenart.

"TAKE THE RED HAT"

Again each new cardinal knelt before the throne. This time his two chamberlains held over his head the red hat. The Pope cried, "Accipe galerum rubrum!"—"Take the red hat" and the cardinal kissed Pius' hand.

Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, as the first of the newly created cardinals, delivered a speech of thanks and loyalty to which the Pope replied briefly.

The last phase of the elaborate ceremonial took place in the Pope's private apartments. The new cardinals went to him there, and the Pope conferred upon them the privilege of participating and speaking in the meetings of the congregations, the administrative bodies of the church, and finally put on each one's finger the cardinal's ring, a large sapphire engraved with the Pope's coat-of-arms and mounted in gold.

"Al" Smith's Son Is Lenient With Driver

New York, July 3 (INS)—A young man's roadster was struck by a truck driven by Joseph Kehoe of Long Island City. When the young man found out that Kehoe was the father of a large family he declined to press the complaint of reckless driving. That was last Monday. Today it was learned the kind-hearted youth was Arthur Smith, son of former Governor Alfred E. Smith

James Cox Sells His Canton, O., Paper

Canton, O., July 3 (INS)—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and owner of the Canton Daily News, today announced the suspension of that newspaper's publication with its edition of Thursday. The real estate, buildings, circulation and other assets, which have been sold to Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Canton Repository, are said to approximate $1,000,000 in value.

Could Hardly Do Her Work

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound in a booklet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks, R. R. #2, Rushville, Indiana.

Hoover Will Request Huston to Resign

Washington, July 3—With the greatest reluctance, President Hoover has decided to intervene personally in the tangled situation confronting the Republican national committee and ask Claudius H. Huston to resign as chairman.

Possibly today, almost certainly before Monday, the executive will get in touch with Huston to request that he step aside.

Trudeau Appeals to Supreme Court

Worcester, July 3—Atty. Fred W. Cronin, senior counsel for Leon Trudeau, sentenced to life imprisonment last night for the murder of his wife, was busy today with plans for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Immediately after sentence was imposed by Judge Brown, Atty. Cronin filed an appeal.

Fourteen Schoolboys Hurt in India Riot

Bombay, July 3 (AP)—Four schoolboy demonstrators were injured seriously and 10 others received slight wounds in a series of encounters with the police this afternoon.

Germany Puts Ban on Separatist Attacks

Mayence, Germany, July 3 (AP)—Aroused by a recurrence of mob attacks on the shops and homes of former Separatists, the Hessian Ministry of the Interior today issued a proclamation appealing for public order and warning citizens that such mob violence was sure to react unfavorably in foreign chancelleries.

Half a dozen shops and several homes were raided during the night and early today before the police got the upper hand. Two former Separatists were injured and 12 demonstrators arrested, but later were released.

IT'S A PITY TO BE FAT!

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*In his famous book entitled "Foods For the Fat," Dr. Yorke-Davies gives this advice: "Any system for reducing fat will be of no avail if the patient persists in eating between meals." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Hurley Defends Ban n "Outside" Teachers

Editor Boston American:

As the proponent of the recent orders which resulted in restricting appointments of teachers and other employes to residents of Boston, I feel it my duty to bring to the attention of your reading public some factors in the situation. The matter is so important that I feel justified in asking that you print this letter in its totality.

The question of non-resident teachers really divides itself into two phases, and these two are generally mixed up in such a way as to cause confusion. One phase deals with the employment as teachers of men and women from communities other than Boston. The second phase is this: Should we require teachers to live in Boston?

Until the recent action of the school committee there had been no restriction on the employment of outside teachers. One would naturally expect that such teachers on getting positions here would move to Boston and become part of our citizenship, but such has not been the case. On the contrary, matters have gone from bad to worse, until the situation has resulted in an injustice to the taxpayers of Boston.

The 1930 Public School Manual shows that of 196 principals and directors, the highest salaried employes, 74 (37 per cent) and of 4300 teachers, 1400 (32 per cent) live outside Boston. These non-resident principals, directors and teachers draw salaries totaling in excess of $4,000,000, the greater part of which is spent outside Boston. This $4,000,000 represents $2 on the tax rate, so that the Boston taxpayer who owns a modest home costing $3000 pays $10 every year to those non-residents.

Moreover, if the $4,000,000 which these non-residents receive were spent in Boston stores many vacant locations would be occupied with consequent benefit to owners of Boston property who pay taxes. Men with such salaries are presumed to have homes and families. Every one of them could afford a home costing from $5000 to $10,000.

Taking an average estimate of $6500 per home, we have $10,000,000 worth of property which should be located in Boston and paying taxes to Boston if these men lived here. Ten million dollars worth of construction at this time in the City of Boston would go far to relieve unemployment. Some have made the claim that these teachers have a right to live where they please as long as they give Boston good teaching service. But why should teachers have any more right to choose a place of residence outside Boston than other employes on the municipal payroll?

The non-resident teachers live where they do as a matter of purely personal convenience. It would seem that a spirit of loyalty should impel men paid high salaries by the City of Boston to become part of its citizenship, to identify themselves with its interests, to become part of its civic life and to send their own children to the schools of which they are important factors.

The only argument which has been advanced against restricting appointment to residents is that it prevents us from getting the best teachers. In its study of this problem, as well as of others, the school committee can never decide questions from a purely theoretical educational standpoint. Every question is hedged about with other important considerations, generally financial.

No educator will deny that the smaller the classes the better the results and yet the school committee for financial reasons maintains classes with numbers in excess of the best educational standards. Here also we must weigh other considerations in addition to the one advanced in editorials which have appeared. This argument that the restriction will prevent us from getting the best teachers for the children wholly excludes consideration of prospective teachers, the sisters and brothers of those children, and of the parents of these same children who pay taxes that the schools may be maintained.

Furthermore, this argument utterly ignores the fact that the committee is faced with a condition and not a theory. With the general unemployment situation acute, the committee is mindful of the fact that we have approximately 1000 eligible candidates, most of them Boston residents, who can secure only occasional substitute work. These candidates have all qualified in academic and professional requirements for teaching the school children of Boston.

We are appointing approximately 100 new teachers every year. I fully believe that Boston, with a population of 800,000, with its splendid educational institutions, can supply 100 first class teachers every year.

Let us, however, meet the objection on purely theoretical grounds. Does our restriction of non-residents prevent us from getting the best teachers? It need not unless non-residents think as little of the place in which they desire to work that they refuse to become our neighbors. We have not said to candidates:

"The fact that you have lived outside of Boston forever bars you from our schools."

"Move into Boston and take your place in competition with Boston girls. You say that you are competent to teach in our schools. You earnestly desire to teach in our schools. Very well, become a Boston citizen as well as a Boston teacher.

Abundant evidence is at hand that the surrounding cities and towns enforce a residence restriction. Most of them have not the courage to put it in their regulations but nevertheless carry it out as a definite policy. And in consequence the Boston girl, driven to the outside city or town by the crowded condition of our list, is told politely but firmly "Go back to Boston." She has come back ready, able and willing, not only to work here but also to live here. I intend to afford her the opportunity of doing both.

JOSEPH J. HURLEY,
Chairman, Boston School Committee.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

The constant banging of turnstiles in the subways and tunnels of Boston, where transportation goes on, is more than ever making inroads upon nerves. It is noise that can be avoided, if some care is taken. Noise is getting to be a great annoyance in large cities and is causing deafness, according to otologists.

Some people pass through the turnstiles in a careful way, causing little or no irritation. I have stood before these turnstiles for 10 minutes during the rush hours over in the Cambridge subway, just watching who are the great offenders in this way. Women are very careful and many men are careful, but the younger generation like to bang these turnstiles, enjoy the noise and seem to think that they are there for this purpose. The increase of nervous diseases in large cities is often traced to noises which could be avoided with some care.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Rustic of 320 Mt. Auburn st., Watertown, were injured, the wife critically, when the automobile in which they were riding was in collision with a truck at Needham and Winchester sts., Newton Highlands, today. Both were taken to the Newton Hospital.

4 BOY ROBBERS GIVEN CHANCE

Salem, July 3 (AP)—Four Lynn youths who figured in a night of escapades were placed on probation by Judge Edward T. Broadhurst here today. They were Robert Rosette, Ernest Darone, William Pike and Joseph Romanovitz, the oldest 17 and the youngest 15.

All pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob A. Allen Libby, Jr., at Saugus the night of May 16, 1929. All but Romanovitz pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering building of Arthur Wilson at Saugus the same night and all pleaded not guilty to assault with intent to murder John F. Kane in Lynn.

The boys were arrested after exchanging shots with Chelsea policemen and Pike and Rosette sent to the Lyman school, Romanovitz to the State reformatory at Concord and Darone placed on probation. Pike, Rosette and Romanovitz have since been paroled with good records.

U. S. Accepts $350,000 of Cuba for Harrah

Washington, July 3 (AP)—An offer of $350,000 by the Cuban government to settle the claim of Charles J. Harrah, an American citizen, formerly of Philadelphia, for damages, was accepted today by the United States.

The claim arose when a narrow gauge rail line operated by Harrah along the beach of Marianao was destroyed upon an alleged order by the Cuban government some years ago.

Charge Steamship Head With Big Theft

Los Angeles, July 3 (AP)—Frank C Hill, president of the Californis & Eastern Steamship Company, operating an intercoastal service, was arrested tonight on an indictment charging him with 14 counts of grand theft totalling $186,000.

O'SHEA THANKS AMERICAN

Commendation of Boston Evening American workers for their cooperation in protecting 1500 school children from the wet at the reception to Admiral Richard E. Byrd on the Common last Friday was contained today in a letter to this newspaper from John A. O'Shea, director of music for the schools.

"It was raining when the children arrived," wrote Director O'Shea, "so they were kept in the buses until we felt reasonably sure there was not to be another shower for some time.

"When they did arrive at the place reserved for them near the Parkman bandstand, the seats were so wet I feared for their safety and casually remarked, 'I would give anything if I could have some newspapers for the children to sit on.'

"What was my surprise when one of your representatives spoke up and said, "All right, I'll get you some.' He telephoned to your office and within 15 minutes a light truck appeared on the scene with thousands of old newspapers, which were given out to the children and which served as a great protection. The children had been kept standing until the arrival of the papers.

"I wish to thank you and let you know how much this co-operation was appreciated by me and my assistants."

Winifred Peterson

WINIFRED PETERSON, Crow Point, won her way to the finals of the girls' junior state championship by defeating Winifred Beal, Wellesley, 3 and 1, after a fine match. Miss Beal played exceptionally well considering the fact that it was her first competition

DOROTHY HUNTER, above, 16-year-old Newton girl, who defeated Winifred Peterson in the finals of the first annual girls' junior championship at Oakley this morning. Miss Hunter, who is former girl champion of the Hawaiian Islands, won by the score of 6 and 5. She had the match pretty much her own way.

Dorothy Hunter Wins Junior Girls' Golf

Dorothy Hunter of Albermarle won the first junior girls' golf championship of this State at Oakley Country Club this morning, defeating Winifred Peterson of Crow Point, 6 and 5, in the final round.

Miss Hunter played out the bye holes and blasted the Oakley course record for women with a 77, the finest round of golf made by a local woman this year. Miss Hunter was 5 up at the turn, going out in 40, this despite the fact that she was on the first green in two. She took three putts to get down, while her opponent scored a par four.

The champion scored three 3's in a row on the first of the bye holes the 14th, 15th and 16th. She needed but par 4's on the last two holes for a 35 coming in, but 3 putted the 17th and wound up with a 5 on the 18th for a 37 in and a total of 77.

Miss Peterson in With 42 Score

Miss Peterson was in with a 42, which included a seven on the last hole, where she flubbed three shots in a row out of the rough.

The match ended on the thirteenth hole, 6 and 5, when the Albermarle girl was down in one putt while Miss Peterson missed a short one which would have sent the match along further.

Jack Asks $100,000 for Match With Campolo

William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, today asked Johnny Buckley if he would agree to allow Jack Sharkey to battle Primo Carnera or Victorio Campollo now that a return match between the Boston heavyweight and Max Schmeling in September is definitely off.

"I'll agree to let Sharkey box Carnera in September on a percentage basis," Buckley told Carey. "The match would draw $500,000.

"Sharkey is also ready to meet Campollo, but will require a guarantee of $100,000 and a percentage privilege for the match."

Buckley told Carey he felt Schmeling had run out of the proposed return match with Sharkey, as he knew the latter was certain to defeat him.

"When Schmeling returns to the United States he must then battle Sharkey," declared Buckley, "and Jack will defeat him easily."

Buelow Blocked Return Max-Jack Bout

The proposed return bout between Sharkey and Schmeling fell through when Arthur Bulow, Schmeling's deposed manager, refused to give the German heavyweight a release of all claims. Bulow insisted on an accounting of money earned by Schmeling in a barnstorming tour here last summer and in movies in Germany.

Sharkey had previously agreed to guarantee Bulow what he was entitled to under his contract with Schmeling in the event of a return bout. Bulow would have received between $50,000 and $80,000 under this arrangement, but he felt he also should share in former earnings of Max in which he did not receive his "cut."

Joe Jacobs, signing for Schmeling, refused to sign for the return tussle without first getting a complete release from Bulow.

This means Sharkey and Schmeling will not meet again before next year. Bulow's contract with Max expires in October.

BAKER IS BADLY BATTERED

Cleveland, July 3 (AP)—Sergeant Sammy Baker, the veteran New York welterweight campaigner, was in a serious condition today from head injuries suffered in a lacing at the hands of Baby Joe Gans of California.

He was taken to St. Alexis Hospital, where an X-ray was ordered today to learn whether he was suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain or a fractured skull.

Baker, reeling from Gans' onslaught and at the limit of endurance from eight knockdowns, staggered backward and sank to the canvas after a minute and 35 seconds of the final round. As Referee Matt Brock tolled nine, the New Yorker gamely pulled himself to his feet to take another two-listed flailing from his negro rival. He sank to the canvas once more and this time Referee Brock ruled it a technical knockout.

The stricken fighter was carried from the ring, moaning in delirium and half unconscious, and was taken to the hospital in an ambulance after first refusing to leave his dressing room.

Baker won only three rounds, the third, fourth and eighth, although he twice felled Gans. Nearly 4000 spectators alternately cheered and booed the pair, who some time ago fought a vicious 10-round draw at Madison Sq. Garden.

TITLE MEET AT NEEDHAM

The town of Needham will celebrate the holiday tomorrow with an amateur track and field meet for men and women at Memorial Park. The first race will get under way at 3:30.

There are two N. E. A. A. U. championships at stake, including a senior 100-yard-dash championship and a senior running broad jump championship.

Laura Sullivan, Pansy Madeira and Mabel Morrisey will be the favorites in the 100-yard dash championship. Sylvia Broman, Catherine Carew, Laura Sullivan and Pansy Madeira are the likely looking winners of the broad jump. Katherine Mearls, broad jump champion, has gone to the Nationals and will not defend her title.

Other races are a 50-yard dash for novices, scratch; 200-yard dash, scratch; javelin throw, scratch; putting 16-pound shot, scratch; baseball throw, scratch; 50-yard dash, handicap; 100-yard dash, handicap; 220-yard dash, scratch; discus throw, scratch, and running high jump, handicap.

BIG BILL AND DUTCHMAN DEFEATED

Wimbledon, Eng., July 3 (AP) — Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, French Davis Cup doubles team, reached the semi-final round in the British tennis championships today by defeating Bill Tilden and his Dutch partner, Hans Timmer, 6—2, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Two strong young American teams already have reached the semifinals—the national championship team of George Lott and John Doeg, and the defending Wimbledon title-holders, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn.

That the veteran French combination will be a serious threat for the title was indicated by the play of Cochet and Brugnon against Tilden and Timmer.

Big Bill and his partner, starting slowly, lost the first set, 6-2, but they soon led at 3-1 in the second. The Frenchmen levelled it at 4-4. Tilden played brilliantly to take the ninth and then served a love game for the set and they were all square at a set apiece.

Although Tilden made a supreme effort to curb the French pair, and Timmer played well beside him, Cochet and Brugnon carried the third set. Cochet was playing with great dash and brilliance, supported by his veteran partner, Brugnon.

Allison Loses First Match

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., and Miss Edith Cross of San Francisco were eliminated in the quarter-final round of the mixed doubles championships by the Australian-American combination of Jack Crawford and Miss Elsabeth Ryan. The scores were 6—2, 3—6, 6—3.

The defeat in mixed doubles today marked the first reverse in the entire tournament for Allison, who has reached the final in singles and the semi-finals in men's doubles with his young American partner, John Van Ryn.

Crawford and Miss Ryan took the first set mainly by carrying the attack to Miss Cross, but the American paired fought better the second set. They forged into a 3-1 lead and when Crawford and Miss Ryan drew level, Miss Cross won her service for a 4-3 lead. Allison and his partner then took the next two games for the set.

After Miss Ryan and Crawford led 4-3 in the final set, Allison made supreme efforts to save the next game, but the Australian-American team, playing the net and lobbing exceptionally well, managed to take it.

Miss Cross bore the brunt of the attack in the ninth and last game, but it was Allison who aided the final point that gave victory to Crawford and Miss Ryan.

Gregory and Collins Enter Semi-Finals

The French met with a reverse in the second quarter final doubles match, Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus being eliminated by the veteran English combination of J.

RUNYON SAYS

by Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, JULY 3—MR. James J. Johnston, the old boy bandit, got on a soap box at Madison Square Garden immediately on hearing of the ruling of the boxing commission on fouls, the said ruling being to the general effect that "everything goes," and that there can be no such thing as foul hereafter in this man's state.

"I would," replied Mr. Johnson, "only every hall in town is already hired by some other manager making the same kind of speech. I repeat," he continued, "that it is a throwback to the past. What do you think of it, Mr. Bunion—I mean Runyon?"

I didn't think of it at all. I had just returned from the boxing commission where I had been accused by Mr. Muldoon, the noblest Roman of them all, of fouling Herr Max Schmeling, the black Uhlan of the Rhine.

He didn't claim I actually chucked the punch that laid Herr Schmeling low, but he implied that I was responsible for it, as I appeared before the commission to file the final report on the Milk Fund Show.

"It's all your fault," said Mr. Muldoon, mournfully. "You remember I wanted you to put someone else on, and then let the winner fight Schmeling for the title, but you went ahead with this, and look what happened. I'm disgusted."

Well, so was I, as far as that goes. But I certainly didn't strike Herr Schmeling. If I had, the poor fellow would now be dead.

New Rule Will Make Foul Claimers Sad

THE BOYS WERE RUNNING around discussing the rules of the commish, pro and con, with plenty of con. The professionals seemed to think it was awful. Many gladiators with constitutionally weak stomachs or arrangements that move to some more friendly port. Most of them thought of Philadelphia, where the good old foul has always been promptly recognized.

The commission says that a fighter may choose any protective device he desires, but that he can't claim foul. A penalty is imposed on the guy who punches low, however. He loses the round in which he punches low.

Of course, if he can put enough zing on his low punch to bring his opponent to the floor, he will not be penalized the round, because the stricken opponent will be counted out. It sounds rather intricate, and confusing.

The claim is advanced that there are now protective devices on the market that make it impossible to hurt a man with a low punch.

Tunney Hit Low by Dempsey but Never Claimed Foul

I HAVE ALWAYS CLAIMED that it is very difficult to foul a dead game fellow—at least to make him yell foul. I don't believe Jack Dempsey, for example, ever by words or gesture suggested that a punch was low.

However, I do not claim that a man can't be hurt by a low punch. He may be hurt, and not admit it. Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly Gene, displayed a large area of black and blue below the belt line after his fight with Dempsey in Chicago, but Mr. Tunney did not complain of the punches to the referee.

The old Manassa Mauler would love this new rule. He always liked to wheel in that left hook around the belt line, and if it dropped a little low, so much the worse for his opponent.

I doubt that Dempsey ever deliberately punched low in his life, but he didn't pause to take dead aim when he let 'em flicker. He would absolutely massacre opponents under the new rule.

Davidson Takes Over E. L. Club

Springfield, July 3—Claude B. Davidson, former president of the defunct New England league, is taking over the business management of the New Haven club of the Eastern league with option of purchase, it was announced here today by President William E. Carey of the league.

Lynn Gas A. A. Plans Pure Show July 10

The Lynn Gas A. A. will run its third amateur boxing show Thursday night, July 10, at the General Electric field. There will be three novice classes 126, 147 and 160 pounds.

HE'LL HAVE TO HANG ON NOW

SPEED BOATS AT REVERE

Speed boat enthusiasts from boat clubs in Wakefield, South Boston, Quincy and several other cities have entered their boats in the outboard motor races to be staged at Revere Beach on the afternoon of the Fourth.

There will be two-mile events and a five-miler with valuable trophies hung up for the winners in each class. The 10-mile races will include a free-for-all in which about 40 boats have already been entered. The five-mile race will be known as the Revere Beach classic, entry being confined to residents of Revere.

Jimmie Gallagher, of radio fame, will compete with his Still Hanging On. Others in this race are Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Revere with the Derby, John Shayeb with Leaping Lena, J. Eugene Pearce with Lillian, Bill Hurley with the Marie, and Jimmy Rotherham with the Popcorn Queen.

These races are being staged under New England Power Boat rules under the auspices of the Bay State Yacht Club.

A's and Senators Will Give Red Sox Crucial Test

CHAMPIONS OPEN HERE TOMORROW

By JOE CASHMAN

They'll have this afternoon off to celebrate that grand and glorious ninth-inning victory over the Indians, but from tomorrow until next Thursday they'll have few breathing spells.

For the league leading and world's champions a five-game siege on the morrow for four games in three days and night on the pacesetters holds welcome the Senators, runners-up in the flag battle, for five games in four days.

These nine games should about make or break the Wagners for the season.

They have done remarkably well against the West, winning nine out of 16 games and pulling themselves up from the cellar to within hailing distance of fifth place.

If they can come close to splitting even against the Mackmen and Solons, they promise to acquire enough confidence to keep out of the basement for good.

Joe Cashman

Final Series Here Crucial for Local Team

On the other hand, if they are back in the cellar when they start on their second Western trip a week from tonight, they are certain to be discouraged and their chances of spurting again will be rather slim.

Their showing against the A's and Senators to date has been very bad. They have beaten the former only once in seven starts and the latter only once in eight attempts.

That would seem to indicate that the natives are due for another trimming during the remainder of their home stay, but don't be surprised if they upset the dope.

They had beaten Cleveland but twice in six games up to the last series and they turned right around to take two out of three from the Indians and came within a buck, would have made a clean sweep.

The answer is that the Wagners are no longer the hopeless outfit that they were in the early days of the campaign. They are playing brilliantly in the field, doing a lot of timely hitting and showing excellent pitching. They also carry the conviction that they are going to win into every game and never beaten until the last man is out.

Red Sox Will Give A's and Senators Hard Fight

The A's and Senators may continue to beat them. Each is a much classier team and figures to take the long end of every series. However, they may find the Sox a much different proposition than in previous games, and are in danger of being toppled off their high tuning unless they are at their best all the way.

The Indians will swear to that. They had the third and deciding game of their series all sewed up, 4 to 1, going into the last of the eighth inning. They had belted Denny MacFayden, who started the game with five straight hits to his credit, all over the lot, while Clint Brown, their rookie moundsee, had held the Sox to six hits.

Yet, when the frame was over, the game was tied and the locals went out to win in the ninth.

Bill Sweeney, still crippled but as effective as ever in a pinch, started the natives off when he batted for MacFayden and reached second when Averill fumbled his single. Tom Oliver followed with his fourth hit of the day to score the red Phil Todt, who had come into two double plays earlier in the pastime, parked a fast ball into the right field stands to even the count.

With Bob Miller, who had walked on second, Heving was passed purposely by Wes Ferrell in the hope that Big Ed would hit into a double play.

Colin Gregory and Ian G. Collins, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

The victory of Collins and Gregory completed the semi-final brackets and tomorrow the British pair will clash with Allison and Van Ryn, the young Americans who defeated them for the title in last year's final.

In the other semi-final, Cochet and Brugnon encounter Lott and Doeg, holders of the United States doubles championship.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan, the all-California team, that holds the French title, reached the women's doubles semi-finals by trimming Madame Henrotin and Jeanne Sigart, Belgium, 6—2, 6—0.

Allston Nine Wins From Hyde Park

Allston downed Hyde Park, 10 to 0, in their regular game at Allston last night, the Hyde Park team hardly having a chance against the Allston nine. Goff did the pitching for Allston and allowed seven hits. He was opposed by Wollaston who was touched up pretty freely. Allston started in the lead in the third frame when they put three runs across the platter. Hyde Park threatened at times but was unable to get over a lone tally.

PROS PRACTICE AT OPEN COURSE

Minneapolis, July 3 (AP)—A starrling 71, one under par, made by Jock Hendry, professional, at Townes Country Club, St. Paul, gave early arrivals for the National open golf tournament something to shoot at at the Interlachen Country Club course today.

Hendry went around in the figure yesterday, going out in 35, one under par, and returning in 36. Hendry is the Minnesota open title-holder.

Gene Sarazen, Flushing, N. Y., played two rounds, shooting a pair of 76s, and thought the Interlachen was "the toughest test since Calumet."

"And you will recall," added Gene, "that Oakmont is one course Bobby Jones never has been able to conquer."

Al Espinosa, of Chicago, who lost the open championship to Jones last year in a 36-hole playoff, found Interlachen quite to his liking and hung a 74 on the first trip.

"It will require three hearty meals, lots of sleep and plenty of power to get around Interlachen in low figures," said Sarazen.

"There won't be anybody burning up the course, at least not for more than one round, and he who gets a 70 or 71 on one round is just as likely to get a 78 or 79 on the next."

Jones is due in Minneapolis Saturday and is expected to get in three or four days' practice before the three-day open event begins on July 10.

Donovan or Barry for Peabody Berth

Marty Donovan or Art Barry are the likely choices for the coaching job at Peabody High as Tom Whelan is likely to cling onto his Lynn English berth. Marty formerly coached Peabody and has recently been linked with Bill Broderick with his Salem High gridsters.

He knows the game from all angles. Art Barry, who like Donovan starred at Exeter in his prep school days, is another great favorite at Peabody, his old high school, and it might be that the school board will take him away from Woburn where he is now coaching football.

Newton Is Beaten by Jamaica Plain

Jamaica Plain defeated Newton Upper Falls, 8-5, in their Twilight League game held at Upper Falls last night. Walsh was on the mound for Jamaica Plain and pitched a steady game. He was opposed by Kenney and Barr. Kenney pitched a good game until the end when he was relieved by Barr. Jamaica Plain took the lead in the second inning when the visitors put over four runs.

Boston Cops Beat Norwood Team, 6 to 4

Accompanied by 100 officers, the Boston Cops baseball nine invaded Norwood last night and downed the Norwood police team by a score of 6 to 4.

Frank Tipping of Division 3 pitched for Boston with Joe Murray of Division 2 behind the plate. Tim Sullvan of headquarters hit a home-run for the Boston team.

Daley May Umpire Down on the Cape

Leo Daley, coach at English high, will keep dabbling in baseball all summer down on the Cape. It is understood that he will spend part of the summer "calling 'em" as an umpire. This will be good news to the school umpires who may expect quietness from the English high bench in the future, although Leo was never one to make a whole lot of fuss over the decisions.

BOBBY JONES IS GIVEN ROYAL WELCOME

New York, July 3 (US)—Hero-worshipping New York spent yesterday keeping up with the Joneses.

The city's traditional welcome was staged again for a chubby-faced young man from Atlanta, who came home triumphant from England with both the British open and the British amateur golf championships tucked in his pocket.

Bobby Jones came back to his native heath to find most of New York and practically all of Atlanta turned out to greet him.

And all the way from Atlanta came Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Jones, Sr., to extend a parental welcome to their famous son.

Cheering thousands lined Broadway from the Battery to City Hall as the conquering hero, blushing modestly, headed a parade of official cavalcade. Mayor Walker, in greeting Jones, said:

"On this very site, two weeks ago," said the mayor, "New York welcomed Rear Admiral Byrd, the man who brought the poles together.

"Today New York is happy. New York is giving you, Bobby, your coming home again brings the poles together—when the world's best golfer is welcomed by the world's worst golfer."

Heading the Atlanta delegation was Maj. John S. Cohen, Democratic chairman of Georgia and editor of the Atlanta Georgian, with Mayor I. N. Ragsdale of Atlanta and Dr. J. M. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech.

Young Mrs. Jones, a petite figure in black, wearing a huge basket of orchids, was manifestly thrilled by the welcome, but she will not go to Bobby to Minneapolis for the tournament there.

"I'm going home to my babies," said Mrs. Bobby Jones, Jr.

PRINCETON IS HENLEY WINNER

Henley-on-Thames, July 3 (AP)—Princeton University defeated Clare College, Cambridge, by six feet in a heat of the Henley regatta today. The time for the mile and five-sixteenths course was 7 minutes, 49 seconds.

Weather again today favored the international races, although there were the same stiff headwinds encountered yesterday. Every sort of water craft, many filled with pajama-clad girls, dotted the sides of the river.

The race was an exciting heat, doubtful to the finish. It started in sheltered water, the crews clinging to each other incessantly.

Buffalo to Try Out Night Game

Buffalo, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Just as darkness settled over the city last night, the Buffalo International League team sauntered out into the roped-off brightness in Bison stadium and began trying to knock a baseball out of range of a battery of searchlights.

The official test of the 40 lighting units which will light the stadium tonight when the Bisons clash with the Montreal team in their first night baseball game provided a new experience for most of the players. They quickly became accustomed to the situation, however, and night was forgotten in the incidents of an ordinary baseball practice.

Harvard Netman Wins in Tourney

Montclair, N. J., July 3—Dick Murphy, of Harvard, won his way to the semifinals in the New Jersey State men's singles championship at the Montclair Athletic Club yesterday by defeating Ted Baston of Palo Alto, Calif., and Robert W. Ryan of Fort Worth, Tex., captain of the Yale varsity.

Julius Seligson, New York, defeated Ted Ludlow of Los Angeles in a third round tilt, 6—2, 6—4. The No. 1 ranked star then advanced to the quarter final round as the result of a default by Bert Hammell, Swarthmore star.

Murphy, in the fourth round, defeated Eastern Athletic Club in the quarter finals beat Ryan, 6—4, 6—3.

Calumet Bush Wins Grand Circuit Race

Cleveland, O., July 3—The annual renewal of the Raindav stakes for 2-year-old trotters, feature of the third day of Grand Circuit racing here, was won today by Calumet Bush, owned jointly by the estate of Lon McDonald of Indianapolis and W. P. Davis of Washington, Pa., in straight heats.

Diamond Pick-Ups

Joey Sewell is still as much of a collegian as when he first came up to the Indians from Alabama, more than 10 years ago, as far as enthusiasm is concerned.

He is talking it up from the start to finish of every contest whether his team is in front or behind. What's more, he hasn't missed a dozen games since he broke in.

Earl Webb has improved remarkably in the field since he started in play regularly. He couldn't do a thing in the garden when he first showed up but he hasn't missed a drive in his sector since the Wagners returned home for their present stand.

The release of Bill Narlesky to Indianapolis leaves the Sox with only Bobby Reeves and Bill Sweeney as utility infielders. All of which means that the player or players the Sox will receive in return can be expected soon.

Clint Brown, young Cleveland twirler, works very hard. He bears down on every pitch regardless of the situation. He'll have to learn to let up a bit at times if he hopes to last very long.

Earl Webb was entitled to second base when, both he and Phil Regan were caught on second in the seventh, but Umpire Bill Dineen let Regan stay on over the protests of the Indians.

MacFayden settled down after the fourth, allowing but two hits from then until he was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but the damage had been done before he found his stuff. He would have won his sixth straight game had he been in form from the start.

Tommy Oliver had his best day in weeks, getting a double and three singles in four times up. He scored two Sox runs and knocked in another.

Former Brown Univ. Grid Player Dead

Attleboro, July 3—Clarence A. Munroe, 21, of North Attleboro, former Brown University varsity football player, died yesterday at his home after an illness of almost two years. His last game for Brown was against Yale in 1928, when he injured a knee that had previously given him much trouble.

Munroe prepared for college at Williston Academy, where he was a three-letter athlete. His brother, James played end for Brown for three years.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Munroe, and two brothers.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

All the understanding in the world of the mechanical principles and details of the golf swing, with either woods or irons, will avail the player little unless he blends with it an appreciation of the mental part of it. And, I think, he is good golfer just at this time, since we have been working toward the making of better, sounder shots for this season. Often you see players who have abandoned their wood clubs, always an unfortunate state of affairs, which has been brought about by wrong Mental Attitude. Wood club use is not difficult to any pronounced degree in regard to the other clubs, but just a man get to thinking he cannot use woods and if he thinks it often enough and long enough—sure enough. Here is a case in which mental attitude, and not the wood clubs, squared the golfer. The cure for that comes only through conquering the wood clubs, but through changing one's aspect. This helpful change is more easily than the baffled player might suspect.

A.A.U. TITLE SWIM MEET OPENS

Long Beach, Cal., July 3 (INS)—The National A. A. U. swimming tournament was scheduled to open here today.

Interest centered in the women swimmers, particularly Helene Madison of Seattle, Wash., and Josephine McKim of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Miss McKim will defend her 440, 880 and mile free style titles. She also will seek the 100-meter championship.

KID CHOCOLATE STOPS PETRONE

New York, July 3—The Kzed Chocolate-Dominick Petrone feud ended after 30 seconds of the sixth round at Ebbets Field last night.

Chocolate completely outclassed Petrone, but as savage and as determined was Petrone's stand for the first four rounds, the wonderful Cuban could not bring him to the subduing point.

The end began in the fifth when Chocolate smashed Petrone all over the ring, first to one corner and then to another. It was a dreadful shellacking that the game boy took, but the Kzed could not upset him. The end seemed almost a foregone conclusion at one period in the fifth.

The bell rang for the sixth. Out tottered Petrone. The Kzed seemed never to touch the canvas in his rush. He was across the ring with the grace and swiftness of a black panther. He feinted once, then a one-two sickening right hand plumb on the button. Petrone tottered back from the impact of the blow and Chocolate jumped between them, both hands aloft.

"That's all, boys," he said.

And it was—but I want to relate for the record books that Dominick Petrone was still on his feet.

Braddock Hammers Out Decision Over Joe Monte

FINE FIGHT STAGED AT FENWAY

By JACK CONWAY

James J. Braddock proved every inch a fighting man when he scored a decisive victory over Joe Monte in their 10-round bout at an Arena A. C. show at Fenway Park. Braddock carried every round.

From the fifth round on, Braddock had Monte in poor shape. Jimmy took the fire out of Monte with his left hand attack and then rocked him with driving right hand wallops to the head and body.

Jack Conway

In the first round, Braddock stood off at long range and popped Monte with left jabs. He also crossed a couple of stiff right handers to the body.

Monte got in under Braddock's guard several times and landed with hard left and right hand punches to the body.

Braddock Staggers Monte in Second

Braddock continued his left hand bombardment in the second frame. He staggered Monte and made the latter miss repeatedly. Jimmy also counted with some solid right hand body smashes.

There was some brisk action in the third frame. Braddock popped away with his left in the early part of the frame. Monte then stepped inside and cracked a right to the jaw. The men then traded right hands. Braddock was using his left to the head to good advantage when the chapter ended.

The fourth was also a big round for Braddock. He riddled Monte with left hands and then cracked a stiff right to the chin. This caused Monte to fight back furiously, and he drove a right to the head and then a right to the body.

Monte Takes Severe Beating in 8th Round

Braddock jabbed and hooked his way out front in the seventh round. At times he crossed his right to the body. Monte was willing but could not get across his right hand swings.

Braddock gave Monte a terrific pasting in the eighth frame. He hit him with terrific right hand punches to the head and body. Joe was hanging on at the gong.

Braddock also had Monte in trouble in the ninth. Jimmy jabbed and hooked and picked his spots for his right.

The tenth was also a big round for Braddock.

Eddie Sullivan of Walpole won over Tony Salleso in one round. Salleso injured his right shoulder during a mixup late in the session, and was barely able to finish the frame.

Perkins Defeats O'Flaherty in Slugging Match

Pat Perkins of South Boston punched his way to victory over Pat O'Flaherty, also of the Peninsular district, in a hectic six-session affair. Neither Perkins nor O'Flaherty is blessed with a great deal of boxing science, and so they punched it out.

PORT OF BOSTON NEWS

By CARL MORRISON

The situation at the Army Base terminal is beginning to clear somewhat, due to a visit yesterday by W. J. McCarthy, chief of terminals of the U. S. Shipping Board in Washington.

The position of the board was explained by the terminal head, who was interviewed by the writer,

"The Shipping Board is entirely satisfied with the way the base is being operated, and has no fault to find," said McCarthy. "The rent is being paid on time, the property is in the best condition of its entire existence, and the government is receiving more money than it ever did before."

McCarthy said he had not heard anything about any law suits or other complaints about the base, and that "no complaints had gone in to the board."

Asked if it were true that a committee of Boston citizens had gone to Washington to lodge criticism of the local administration of the base, McCarthy replied in the negative. He was then told that the names of the committees were available and their Washington trip was a matter of record.

McCarthy then recalled that "the committee might have gone to Washington," but explained that the board had a policy of paying no attention to delegations.

"If there are any complaints to be made, they must be in writing," said McCarthy. "I can't speak for the board, but I am sure they will immediately check up on any such complaints."

McCarthy said he did not wish to discuss the $13,000 reduction in rent which was granted by the shipping board, nor did he wish to comment upon the shipping board clerking concession which was given to the local operators without any advertised bids. He indignantly denied reports of any irregularities on the part of the shipping board in these two financial aids to the operators.

TO DAVY JONES

Fighting to the last, the gallant old Moritz went down to Davy Jones' yocker yesterday. This old hulk of a rum-runner, which caused so great a commotion along the bay as she burned, simply refused to sink naturally. She may have carried so much liquor that she had an aversion to water, but not until after several hours of pumping water into her hold did she finally sink below the waves.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

The subject of today's harbor sketch is Harold P. Lambert, president of the H. P. Lambert Co., customs brokers.

"Hal" is one of the newer harbor men, but in the half dozen years he has been in the field he has worked up one of the biggest customs businesses in the port. He is an ardent port booster and a member of the Foreign Commerce Club, the Maritime Association, the Traffic Club and the Y. D. Club. He was recently married.

"DUTY TO CARGO"

Our daily lesson on caring for cargo is being well received as there are many valuable hints. Today's chapter reads:

It has already been remarked that stowage must be scientific and according to sound practice, as well as carefully planned. Obviously, wet hides must not be stowed on grand pianos, nor dried blood on flour, nor kerosene alongside baby food. The modern ocean carrier transports scores of radically different commodities ranging all the way from barbed-wire fencing and heavy machinery to baby carriages, radios, glassware, statuary, and delicate scientific instruments.

In all matters pertaining to stowage, a master's invariable motto is: "Hope for the best but prepare for the worst." This is only natural. On a long journey he never knows what weather he will encounter, so the cargo, besides being stowed correctly in other respects, must all be heavily braced, blocked, and otherwise safeguarded in anticipation of the ship possibly having to labor through heavy seas. It is here that the huge quantities of dunnage and shoring timbers come into play; their liberal use helps the carrier materially to fulfill duty to cargo in so far as stowage is concerned. In this connection we must not forget that, whatever else changes, natural laws do not change. Stability of the ship—its ability to remain right side up—is still, as it always has been and always will be, a matter of vital importance. Thus it is that, to the stowage complications accruing from the wide variety of commodities and the still wider variety of containers, there must be added the difficulty of so stowing the ship as absolutely to insure its stability at all times and under the most adverse conditions.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Horton Smith made five mistakes during his round at Winchester yesterday, yet he knocked two strokes off Clark Hodder's record. He slipped at the 4th, 7th, 9th, 17th and 18th holes.

At the fourth hole, he apparently under-clubbed. He was about four inches short of a perfect second to the seventh green, pulled his iron to the ninth, and a clot of mud on his ball caused him to three-putt the 17th. At the 18th, his tee shot caught a trap and he did well to come up with a five for a 69.

Horton Smith made the Winchester course, which is one of, if not the toughest course in New England, look easy. Aside from his sensational putting, the best shot of the round was his long iron to the second green. It was right on the pin all the way and, to cap the climax, he dropped a beautiful putt for an eagle three.

After the match, Horton admitted that he was stupid on the 17th green, for not wrapping his first putt beyond the cup, in the hopes of knocking the mud off his ball. As it turned out, Horton's first putt was well short of the cup and he missed the next one, due to the mud.

After watching Leo Deigel for 18 holes, few were able to explain his ability to score. He is the most unorthodox golfer in the game but regardless of his weird style he gets results.

Francis Ouimet was at the peak of his game, as he usually is at Winchester. "Niba" was out in 34 and came home in 38 for a 72. If three of Francis' putts had dropped into the cups instead of hanging on the lips, he would have finished all even with Horton Smith.

After watching or hearing of the sensational round Horton Smith turned in at Winchester, the boys will be out in numbers for the North Shore Golf and Tennis Club open handicap medal play tournament tomorrow and Saturday. A. S. Brown, Jr., owner and operator of the North Shore course is offering one gross and two net prizes for each class.

Francis Ouimet will team up with Henry Lapham against George Voight and Charlie Cross today at The Country Club. The Ouimet-Lapham team has never met defeat in open competition but according to Charlie Cross, they are in for their first upset this afternoon.

From his observations in England, Horton Smith rates the British golfers as follows: Henry Cotton, Archie Compston, Abe Mitchell, Henry Whitcombe and Cyril Tolley.

The net receipts of the Winchester Country Club exhibition were divided between the Winchester and Arlington hospitals. Approximately 2000 enthusiasts followed the match.

Although Johnny Farrell was out in 31 against Leo Deigel and Horton Smith at Springfield, aside from his putting, he was anything but the Johnny Farrell who won the United States open at Olympia Fields. Horton Smith regards Johnny Farrell as the best putter in the game.

Art Ross, manager of the Boston Bruins, will team up with Perley Chase against Francis Ouimet and Bill McPhail at the Duxbury Country Club. Ouimet will be a regular visitor at Duxbury for the remainder of the summer, for he will spend July and August at the South Shore resort.

Fans Pay Tribute to Morrissey

Five thousand boxing fans at the Arena Club's show at Fenway Park stood for one minute in silence, as a tribute to the memory of the late Police Inspector "Mike" Morrissey. Johnny Hallahan, the announcer, previously made a short speech in which he told how "Mike" had always been a great follower of boxing.

Sport lost one of its greatest boosters in the death of the late police inspector, who was buried today from his home in Charlestown.

RISKO BEATEN BY TUFFY GRIFFITH

Chicago Stadium, Chicago, July 3 (U.S.)—Tuffy Griffith, of Chicago, out-pointed Johnny Risko, of Cleveland for a decision in their 10-round fight at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Griffith began piling up points from the start of the fight. He took the first five rounds, the second by only a shade, but as the fight progressed his blows appeared to lack steam.

He added to his lead in the later rounds and in the eighth doubled Risko like a jackknife with a sharp right to the baker boy's jaw.

Jack Conway Adds Another Win to Credit

Jack Conway called another one right when James J. Braddock defeated Joe Monte in their 10-round bout at Fenway Park.

"Braddock lived up to his reputation as a fine boxer and dangerous puncher," said Jack. "The bout was one of the best staged here this year and should pump some new life into Old Man Boxing."

SEES BILLION DOLLAR CHAIN SYSTEMS

Several chain store organizations will within a decade or two boast sales of more than one billion dollars a year each.

Mass production, the basis of American prosperity, cannot flourish without such mass distribution.

The chains are not driving independent merchants out of business, but the current of changing economic conditions is driving out the inefficient ones.

Elimination of one-third of all retail outlets in the country is virtually inescapable, not because of the chains, but because of distribution problems that bring about both the chains and the elimination of marginal independents.

BOOK JUST OUT.

These are some of the views expressed by leading experts whose enlightening addresses and essays have been gathered together by Daniel Bloomfield, LL.B., manager of the Retail Trade Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in his new book, "Trends in Retail Distribution," just published by H. W. Wilson Company, New York.

Because of the importance of the chain store phase of present-day activity in America, Mr. Bloomfield has given considerable space to the subject and his contribution is so comprehensive that it might well be called the most valuable yet produced.

Herbert Hoover, Prof. James L. Palmer of the University of Chicago, Edward A. Filene and A. Lincoln Filene of William Filene's Sons Company of Boston, Earl C. Sams, president of the J. C. Penney Company, Joseph H. Appel of the John Wanamaker stores, and Philip Le Boutillier, president of Best & Co., are some of those whose expert views are quoted at length in the volume.

AUTHOR OF MANY BOOKS

Instalment selling, the causes of hand-to-mouth buying, man power, consolidations and mergers, and the influence of fashions are some of the subjects treated. The material that Mr. Bloomfield has brought together is wisely selected from the best available, a great part of it not now accessible elsewhere than in his book.

Mr. Bloomfield has written several other books. These include "Labor and Maintenance," "Employment Management," "Modern Industrial Movements," "Problems of Labor," "Financial Incentives for Executives and Employes," "Problems in Personnel Management," "The Modern Executive," "Commercial Arbitration." He is a widely known student of business problems and a recognized expert.

A Flock of Bald Heads All Glistening in the Sun

ROBERT DACEY LEO CONROY

Sunburned Skulls the Vogue in So. Boston

An unheralded convention that will last all summer opened today at the Alger playground, South Boston and, as Skippy might remark, it is a very smooth affair, indeed, very smooth.

Fifteen youngsters from five to eight, with their heads close-clipped and shining in the sun, grouped like so many balls on a pool table ready for the break shot.

These youngsters aren't going to be hot, but they may have sunburned skulls, for up and down, over and across, north, east, south and west, the clippers have run in a summer harvest and the result shapes up like the first row at a burlesque show.

Robert Dacey set the vogue. Robert has more freckles than the pugilistic pastime has fouls, but his hairs are fewer than feathers on a buddock.

William Downey of C st. ran a devasting pair of clippers across Robert's "conk" and the result was so popular at the playground that the Baldy Association was promptly formed with Robert as its president.

Robert's brother, John, has been voted the handsomest member. The club includes on its membership roll Leo and Francis Conroy, Joseph, Walter and Paul Connor, Richard Kendrew, John Geary, John Sullivan, James Flynn and Henry Johnson.

TURKS BOMBING 150,000 REBELS FROM THE AIR

Istanbul, Turkey, July 3 (AP)—Turkish airplanes are being used to bomb the mountain fastness of insurgent nomads and raiders who have been causing trouble in the northwestern part of Kurdish Turkistan.

About 150,000 armed nomads of the local Djelali tribe, plus Kurdish raiders from across the Persian border, are estimated to have taken refuge in hiding places on Mount Ararat. Turkish airplanes for the past few days have been bombarding these lairs and soldiers have been making their way up the mountain.

The Turkish authorities today said the success of the troops had been such that within a few days the insurgents will be forced to throw down their arms.

Last Rites Said for United Fruit Official

With company officials present, funeral services for William Newsome, senior vice-president of the United Fruit Co., were conducted today at St. Aidan's church, Brookline. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 11:30 a. m. with the Rev. Dr. Creagh officiating. Pall bearers were F. B. Bowes, J. S. W. Holton, R. G. Plumer, T. H. Rossbottom, Dr. H. S. Rowen, W. H. Todd, I. K. Ward and C. M. Wynns. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

One Week Left to Catch Up on the Ripley Word Hunt

Now for a grand finish in the Ripley Word Hunt, which is now running in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

On next Thursday, July 10, just one week from today—the final Ripley Word Hunt pictures and hidden descriptions will appear.

You still have time to "catch up" with back sets, but don't delay.

Today's set of pictures and descriptions is No. 24. If you are lacking back sets you can easily obtain them by sending to the Ripley Word Hunt Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, 10c, plus 2c postage, for each back number of the Boston Sunday Advertiser and 2c plus 2c for postage for each back number of the Boston Evening American. Just remember that this contest started Tuesday, June 10.

Right now this Word Hunt is more popular than Cross-word puzzles were in their day at popularity. No wonder when you consider the generous prizes offered in this Hunt—$2500 in cash, made up of 99 cash awards—$1000 for the first prize and $500 for the second prize!

CYCLISTS HURT IN CRASH

Ipswich, July 3—Six persons were injured at Hammett and Central sts., today, when a motorcycle, operated by Paul Mills, of Cogswell ave., Beverly, collided with an auto operated by Joseph Bernard, of Mount Pleasant st., Ipswich.

Mills was taken to the Benjamin Cable Memorial Hospital by Patrolman Byard Horsman and House Officer Frank Dondero, suffering from broken fingers on the right hand, a broken right ankle, and internal injuries. His name is on the danger list. Riding on the rear seat of the motorcycle was Harland Pierce, of 22 Common st., Beverly. He suffered bruises about the head and body.

In Bernard's car were his wife and three young children. They suffered lacerations, abrasions and contusions.

Tosh Escapes Being Sent Back Home

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

One convoy of wounded after another is the lot of the women's ambulance corps of which Helen Smith is a member. Commandant whom Tosh has christened "Mrs Jick," is a hard task-master. Strenuous work, little sleep and poor food show on the girls. When Smithy's mother writes upon her self's return, "Smithy," picturing the war-ravaged scene, revolts. But letters from her war-nurse sister, Triz, are treats. Deaths are numerous and heartrending.

CHAPTER 20

An hour later we sit huddled round the canteen fire—Tosh, The Bug, Elta Potato and myself. We have been forbidden to go upstairs until Skinny has packed. She and Frost are leaving for Boulogne tonight.

"Sacked for refusing to obey orders," says Tosh for the umpteenth time. "Commandant was determined to get Skinny out and she's got her out. Without my assistance, though."

"I think it was with your assistance," says The B. F. "Aren't you sorry now, Tosh?"

"No, she was a dam' bad driver and I'd push any dam' bad driver out if I had a chance," retorted Tosh. "I regret the row, certainly. Commandant absolutely refused to believe anything. 'I am not imbecile enough to believe Skinner would attack Toshington for insinuating that she couldn't attract men'—those were her exact words. 'No girl would attack another for merely being catty, and Toshington is not the catty type.'"

"Well, candidly, darling, I did think it rather catty," says The B. F. "After all, it's not Skinny's fault if she's plain."

Tosh Is Accused

"Well, Commandant gave them a last chance to tell her what I had said," continues Tosh. "They remained dumb. She asked me again what my exact words were. I said I had forgotten. 'Very well,' said Commandant, 'I order you to tell me.' They again gave an impersonation of two dumb oysters, and that settled it. The old devil's eyes fairly shot triumph. She sacked them on the spot for refusing to obey orders. She said she would not have insubordination in her ranks. Told them to catch the night train. I'm sorry about Frost," adds Tosh regretfully, "never knew a girl change just like Frost. Absolute genius on a car."

"But why didn't she sack you too?" asks Elta Potato.

Tosh winks at me.

"Cunning old devil. 'You've got a faulty memory, Toshington,' she says when they've gone. 'I hope it continues faulty when this particular episode is discussed in the convoy. You may go.' I don't mind admitting it took the wind out of the sad ship Toshington's sails for a few brief moments."

"I wonder what Commandant meant by that?" asks The B. F.

"I shall go on wondering all my life," says Tosh.

The Bug and I look at one another for a long moment. Silently we are asking how much or how little Commandant guesses?

* * *

We are worried about The Bug —Tosh and I. The air raids have begun again with the moon. There has been one every night this week. We are all going under for lack of sleep, but The Bug is worse than anyone.

In Sad State

Bug Has Hysterics

The work has trebled; they are toiling at top speed in the camps to get the men away to the base to make way for the hundreds of wounded pouring in from the field hospitals, but Commandant has not yet grasped that even machines will wear out if they are not rested occasionally. She still rigidly insists on the petty punishments that make our lives hell—and The Bug gets more punishments than any of us.

We are shorthanded, too. Three girls are in hospital with dysentery, five with septicemia, and two with measles, which leaves 10 ambulances out of action until the new drivers come—and it is becoming increasingly difficult to get drivers. Rumors of our treatment, not only in this convoy but in other depots have quelled the ardor of the volunteers at home.

Senseless fanatics like Commandant are to blame. She will not see the idiocy of her autocratic policy. Fifty per cent of us are unfit for duty but are carrying on because there is no other way out, and The Bug is worse than anybody. She is in a sad state. She is more skin

BONFIRES WILL USHER IN 'GLORIOUS 4TH'

Officials Join in Morrissey Tribute

DETAIL OF 40 ESCORTS CASKET

Funeral of Boston Police Inspector Held at Charlestown Church

Police officials of many cities and towns, as well as a number of baseball players and sporting men, attended today funeral services of Police Inspector Michael J. Morrissey at St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown.

As a mark of respect, the office of Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, who was present with Mayor Curley and Police Supt. Michael H Crowley was closed from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m.

A detail of 40 officers and patrolmen escorted the casket from the home at 58 Baldwin st, Charlestown to the church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Mark C. Driscoll, D. D., with the Rev. William H Flynn as deacon and the Rev. William V. Chamberlain, as sub-deacon.

A number of visiting priests, friends of the inspector—occupied seats in the sanctuary during the mass, while a number of Sisters, nuns of the Order of the Sisters of St. Joseph from St. Francis de Sales Convent, occupied seats in the church.

The active pallbearers were Sergt. John F. McNealey of the Lafrange street station; Sergt Daniel J. Toomey, of the Athens street station, South Boston; Sergt. Patrick H. Flannery, of the Brighton station; Sergt Stephen K Higgins, of the Charlestown station; Sergt. Denis A Shea of the Back Bay station, and Sergt. Patrick J. Flaherty, of the Mattapan station The ushers at the church were Lieut. Inspectors George J Farrell and Francis P. Haggerty.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, where committal prayers were read by the Rev. John G. Hogan, chaplain at the cemetery.

FORTUNE LEFT TO CHARITIES

Several Catholic educational institutions and charitable organizations were named as the principal beneficiaries under the will of Miss Annie J. Sullivan of Brighton, which was filed today in Suffolk Probate Court.

To St. John's Catholic Seminary $25,000 is left in memory of Miss Sullivan's brother, the late Rev. Dennis J Sullivan, Boston College gets $5000 for scholarships.

Other bequests include $2500 for the Home for Destitute Catholic Children; $500 for the Convent of Notre Dame, Lowell; $500 for the Little Sisters of the Poor, Somerville, and $1000 each to Mary E. McGovern and Mary P Lynch, both of Lowell.

The residue of the estate is to go to St. John's Seminary, Brighton.

In State Fight

RUFUS B. DODGE, former Republican mayor of Worcester, who is said to be slated to carry the Democratic banner in the campaign for Lieutenant-Governor.

RUFUS DODGE BOOMED FOR LIEUT.-GOV.

Leading Democrats Behind Drive for Former G. O. P. Mayor of Worcester

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Rufus B. Dodge, former Republican mayor of Worcester, it became known today, is the choice of the Democratic statemakers for the nomination for lieutenant governor.

The former mayor, a man of rugged independence after a lifetime of service to the G. O. P., quit during the presidential campaign in 1928 as a protest against intolerance and incompetence within the party.

Joining forces with the Democrats, Dodge acted as temporary chairman of the Democratic state convention in that year at Tremont Temple, Boston.

The Democrats have always been weak in Worcester County, and because of his standing in the community, Democratic chieftains believe that Dodge would add considerable strength and balance to the state ticket.

DODGE GETS PREFERENCE

For this reason they prefer him to the two other Worcester candidates in the field, former Mayor Peter F. Sullivan and Charles S. Murphy, and to the other aspirant for the honor, John F. Malley of Newton.

Murphy and Malley, they figure, both had their chance in 1928 when they ran for the position in the primaries, Murphy polled 74,016 votes, while Malley, in that contest, rolled up a total of 115,812. In the election following the primaries, the Republican candidate, William S. Youngman, defeated Malley by a majority of 81,861 votes. The tally was: Youngman 757,012, Malley 698,151.

URGES CO-OPERATION

The exclusive announcement in the Boston Evening American of the determination of Frank J. Donahue to retire as chairman of the Democratic State committee caused consternation among the rank and file of the party. Signs are abundant that considerable pressure will be brought to bear on Donahue, who successfully guided the party in the last presidential campaign, to remain.

The usual talk of a successor to Donahue is lacking, and prevailing sentiment appears to be that his getting out at this stage of the game would be a calamity.

It will take a lot of persuading to get the hustling chairman to reconsider his decision and not enter the lists himself for the governorship or the senatorship.

FRENCH ORATOR COMES TO HUB

M. Jules Henry, French charge d'affaires at Washington, who is to be Independence Day orator at Faneuil Hall tomorrow arrived in Boston this morning.

He was met at South Station by Standish Wilkos for Mayor James M. Curley, and J. C. Joseph Flamand French consul.

Escorted by motorcycle police the party motored to the Copley Plaza for breakfast, after which M. Henry was taken to City Hall where he was welcomed to Boston by Mayor Curley.

The city's guest went to the Common where he laid a wreath on the Lafayette memorial, and then was escorted to the State House to be greeted by Gov. Allen.

Kiel to Greet Middies

Kiel, Germany, July 3 (AP)—Hearty reception has been prepared for the United States midshipmen squadron, composed of the battleships Arkansas, Florida and Utah, which will arrive Saturday.

BOSTON'S MOST SAVAGE CAT. That's what they call this one. It's a resident of Beacon Hill and its name is "Blackie." "Blackie" is owned by Miss Margaret C. Starbuck of Mt. Vernon st., who takes him out for an airing on a leash. "Blackie" weighs 12 pounds and has claws like needles. No one dares to pick him up.

THEN FROM the South End, we offer the tamest type of cat. Elizabeth Cameron vouches for her "Snookums." The cat and "boss" were found at 98 East Newton st. (Staff photos)

Waltham Woman Seeks Seat in House

Miss Jeanette C. Church, attorney member of the Waltham school committee, has announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for representative from the Seventh Middlesex District. She is the first woman to enter a contest for representative in the Seventh Middlesex District. She was elected to the Waltham school committee in 1927, finishing first in a field of six candidates. This was her first entrance into public life.

HARRY COHN is looking over [illegible] the big directors in the business with an eye to one day [illegible] [illegible] I heard [illegible] but not verified, that David Wark Griffith has been made a flattering offer to direct "Tol'able David" and that all that stands between D. W. and the picture is the permission of Joseph Schenck. While not one word could be learned from Columbia as to whether or not the contracts would soon be signed we did hear that Barney Glazer has been definitely signed to write the adaptation of this story. What with Mary Pickford in New York and her plans so indefinite on "Secrets," you cannot blame Barney for deciding to take another [illegible]

I HAVE AN IDEA Sigmund Romberg [illegible] getting the material he wants for his operetta. He saw in Bessie Love the comedy lead for his "Children of Dreams" and negotiations were at once opened between him and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. All of us would like to see Bessie in another "Broadway Melody." But that is a screen play difficult to follow. Bessie I thought, looked a little wan when I saw her last, then I remembered that she had been sick and wasn't wearing any makeup.

OUTDOOR SPECTACLES JUST A HOBBY FOR REVERE MAN

STAGING UNUSUAL outdoor spectacles is a business in itself, but with Colin F. Chisholm, secretary of the amusement division of the Revere Chamber of Commerce, it is a hobby, and a mighty important one.

Mr. Chisholm claims that when almost a million people gather at Revere Beach on the night before the Fourth of July each year, they come to see something out of the ordinary; something that has never been seen before and something that they may never see again during their lifetime. Therefore, they must not be disappointed. The holiday crowds come from Greater Boston, from various points in Maine and New Hampshire, Providence, Fall River and many other cities quite distant from Revere Beach. It has taken many of them several hours to get to the "Playground of New England," so that their travel must be rewarded with a show well worth seeing. That is Secretary Chisholm's theory.

C. F. Chisholm

* * *

Mr. Chisholm often plans several months in advance on what he is going to provide for the edification of the crowds at Revere Beach on the night before the Fourth. It takes weeks of patient effort to get together just the right thing. There must be thrills and sensations; at the same time there must be absolute safety.

* * *

FOR THIS HOLIDAY show Mr. Chisholm has selected another bombardment. Airplanes overhead, anti-aircraft guns below, flares, bombs, cannons, skyrockets and fireworks. This is a combination that appeals to all.

It will be an exact replica of modern warfare and a living example of what may be expected in case of another war. Planes will scout the territory and drop flares so that they can find the range to shoot at. Land forces will resist the attack with anti-aircraft guns. It will be a battle in the real sense of the word and a spectacle well worth seeing. Just another example of the ingenuity exercised by the secretary of Revere's amusement division to provide a show that will contain all the elements of danger, provide thrills and sensations while at the same time furnish entertainment for spectators running into hundreds of thousands.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK'S RIALTO

New York, July 3

Morris Green and Lewis Gensler will present Joe Cook in a new musical show as the first of a series of productions for the Erlanger offices, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement marked another important advance in the move of the Erlanger office to assemble a large and experienced producing staff capable of filling their extended chain of theaters.

Green has long been associated with A. L. Jones, and together they originated the popular series of "Greenwich Village Follies." His new alliance with the Erlanger force will not mean the end of his association with Jones, for they will continue their producing partnership. It was Jones and Green who presented the last Cook show, "Rain or Shine."

Gensler has been producing independently. It already has been announced that he will produce the Lenore Ulric play in association with the Erlangers. This is the unnamed piece by William Dubois. It will come to town in October.

Little information is available about the new Cook show, but it will be an early arrival on Broadway. It is expected to open out of town in the middle of August.

* * *

E. T. Rossiter, who has not been directly concerned with Broadway for several seasons, will return in the fall with the production of a play called "Lest We Forget."

"Lest We Forget," so the story goes, is a "symbolical play of now and thereafter" by one Kent [illegible]. There will be casting shortly soon, eager players may be pleased to learn, and the author will serve as director.

* * *

The Hampton Players, who instead out on Long Island during the summer, begin their season tonight at Southampton. The play is "Let's Get Married," a new comedy by Francis Goodrich and Albert Hackett. Quogue, Westhampton and East Hampton will see it after Southampton. Henry Wadsworth, Alber Van Decker, Sally Bates, Martha Millikan, Jacquelyn Green, Miriam Doan, Elizabeth Tyler, Edward C. Cole, George Quinby, John Knapp and Harry Selby are in the cast.

"Let's Get Married" is the first of four new plays the Hampton Players will present.

Vodvil Who's Who

Eddie Dowling, author producer, songwriter and screen star, and who will be the vaudeville headliner at the Keith-Albee, starting Saturday, was born in Providence, the home of George M. Cohan and was one of a family of 17 children, but the only one to go on the stage. He ran away from home to become a cabin boy but wound up in the English music halls and finally on Broadway. In 1918 A. L. Erlanger was so impressed with the quality of his voice and his flair for comedy, that he put Dowling out in a show called "She Took a Chance," and the next season he arrived on Broadway as a member of Ziegfeld's Follies. From then on he has had one success after another.

Guest Book Displayed in Metropolitan Lobby

The Metropolitan theater has installed in its Grand Lobby a Guest Book, in which the famous guests of this theater will put their signatures. Governor Allen was the first to sign this new volume and directly under the name the governor was that of Lieut.-Gov. Youngman. Others whose names are already in the book are Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley, Capt. Latham of the French Cruiser "Ville d'Ys"; Adj.-Gen. of Massachusetts Jesse F. Stevens, Lillian Roth, the Paramount picture star, and Will Rogers, who recently appeared at the Metropolitan.

Title Changed

Eddie Cantor has changed the title of the original story that he is writing for Universal from "Selling at the Top" to "Quick Money." Cantor has contracted to deliver the story inside of two months.

BIG SALARIES IN FILMLAND ARE FEW

Enormous salaries paid to film stars are, in most cases, only exaggerated legend, and many so-called high-salaried actors actually earn no more than successful bricklayers, reveals Herbert Cruickshank, noted film writer, in an article in "Talking Screen."

The thousands-a-week legend is sometimes necessary, but such stars as Jack Oakie, Clara Bow, John Boles, Alice White, Jimmy Hall, Helen Twelvetrees, Sue Carol, Buddy Rogers and others know differently, writes the author, and it's all in the contract.

Oakie was first seized by Wesley Ruggles, tied down to a $100 a week contract, then sublet to Paramount at $250, out of which Jack still gets only $150, though he has refused a $1500 a week split from Paramount. And upon the very day that his fan-mail record broke that established by Rudolph Valentino, Buddy Rogers was making only $400 a week. Sue Carol, rented out for $1200 a week, got $200. Clara Bow earned plenty of money at Paramount, but a contract with B. P. Schulberg forced her to give a slice to him.

The staggering sums said to be the earnings of Chaplin, Lloyd, Fairbanks and Swanson are not salaries, according to this writer, because these persons are in business for themselves and are their own producers. John McCormack, the singer, however, received what was reported to be the highest-priced contract on record when recently Fox paid him $50,000 a week for 10 weeks to star in "Song O' My Heart."

Stage Who's Who

Jeannette Fox-Lee of "The Long Road" which comes to the Plymouth on Monday July 14 plays only wicked French ladies, according to her own statement. She is so capable an actor of gay French roles and has so established her name in such parts that managers refuse to consider her for any other line of parts. In "What Price Glory" she was the only woman in the cast. In "The Long Road" she plays a similar part to that she filled in the Anderson-Stallings play. She is French in appearance, speaks the language flawlessly—and the slang and argot like a native—and plays generally naughty French peasants and adventuresses, much to the taste of her audiences. But there's a joker in Miss Fox-Lee's masquerading for she isn't any more French than Eddie Cantor. Buffalo, New York State, is the place of her nativity and her folks are good American stock.

GOVERNOR TO VIEW MASS. FILM

Governor Frank G. Allen will view, as chief executive of the Commonwealth, the talking picture, "Three Centuries of Massachusetts," which is to have its first public showing in Symphony Hall next Monday night. The occasion will also be made notable by the presence in person of Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, who appears upon the screen in this talking picture to tell the romantic tale of the Bay Colony in his own entertaining way. Prof. Hart is returning from a sojourn in the South for this event, which marks the first entrance of an internationally known professor into the talking pictures and the first popularization of history in this medium. Prof. Hart will make a brief address in person.

"Three Centuries of Massachusetts" was made by the Harvard Film Foundation, an endowed organization, which co-operates with Harvard University, utilizing the sound screen for the elucidation of the various sciences.

Legion Show at Hamilton Tomorrow

Large Number of Entries for Popular North Shore Holiday Event

A POPULAR SOCIAL event on the North Shore is the Legion Horse Show to be held tomorrow at Hamilton. There have been a gratifying number of entries and reserved parking space has been well taken. In the morning the children's classes are called and this always proves a popular part of the program.

THE JUDGES FOR THE show ring will be Dr. Harold Baker, George H. Timmins, and Francis R. Appleton, Jr. The clerk of scales will be Fred Alley and Bayard Warren and Hiram Folsom will officiate as starters. Augustus Goodwin will be chairman of the stewards and he will be assisted by Oliver Wolcott, James W. Appleton, Finley McDonald and Sumner Pingree. One of the famous entries is Iron Master from the stables of Frederick Ayer. This hunter won the Master's cup at Myopia at the last Labor Day horse show.

THE WENHAM TEA HOUSE has issued invitations to a band concert by the Salem Cadet Band for this evening. Many dinner parties will precede it, among them the Misses Helen and Mary Burnham with a party of eight, Mrs. Alanson Daniels, a party of eight, Mrs. John D. Hills, of Magnolia, with a party of six, Mrs. Neil Rantoul, a party of six, Mrs. Charles Thorndike Parker having two at her table, Mrs. J. Frederick Vaughan will be hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. A. Stride, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Crehore, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, Mr. Norman Vaughan and Miss Barbara Gage. Mr. and Mrs. Houston Thomas will have their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis and the Foster Smiths of Salem as their guests.

Mrs. Charles Carter Luncheon Hostess at Swampscott Today

MRS. CHARLES H. CARTER of Brookline, who is staying at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, is hostess for a luncheon today for 30 guests in the Puritan Hall Grill. There will be cards after the luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dill of the Hotel Somerset are inviting 30 guests to dinner on the fourth of July at the New Ocean House where they are staying as is their annual custom.

AMONG THE ARRIVALS AT this popular resort are: Mrs. E. E. Bennett of the Hotel Somerset, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wightman, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. PRACTICE POLO AT MYOPIA Hunt Club, Hamilton, is Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, at 4 30 and 3 30. The Frederick Princes will be missed this season as they are at Newport.

Junior Tennis Folk Prepare for Tourney at Montserrat Club

THE MONTSERRAT CLUB IS enjoying its fourth season. The annual junior tennis tournament will take place later than usual this year and the youngsters should be in fine form under the tennis instruction of Leif Nashe the popular professional. Among the pupils who play regularly are Katherine Winthrop and her brother, Nathaniel; Isabel Lawrence, Nancy and Leverett Shaw, Phyllis Tuckerman, John Cutler, Jr., who is champion of St. Mark's school in the three lower forms, having won the title this year; Eleanor Coolidge, Lily and Camilla Warren, the Henry P. McKean children, Virginia and Christopher Rodgers of Hamilton, Olivia Russell, daughter of the Richard Russells of Cambridge, Martha Proctor of Ipswich. The club is planning to keep four of the six grass courts in use all of the time.

THE TERCENTENARY CELEBRATION of Hamilton will take place July 19 and 20 and Mrs. George S. Mandell is preparing a float for the parade depicting the Rev. Manassa Cutler leaving Hamilton in a covered wagon and going into Ohio to found the town of Marietta and the college of that name. This was the first wagon to leave for the northwest territory and the date was December 3, 1787.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES P. CURTIS have spent a week at Manchester with Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Curtis, their son and daughter-in-law. Mr. Curtis is commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club and they summer at Prides Crossing.

Brilliant Fashion Shows at Paris Functions

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL
Universal Service Special Cable

Paris, July 3—The social aftermath of the Grande Semaine is keeping the fashionable calendar still crowded with social events. Even the leaders have not begun drifting off to Deauville and other seaside resorts.

Among those whose entertainments overflowed into what the French now term the "Semaine Americaine" are the Baron and Baroness Edugene de Rothschild, Countess de Broglie, Count and Countess de Grammont, and British Ambassador and Lady Tyrell and their garden party.

Many were present at a ball given by Monsieur and Madame Jacques Balsan, the former Consuela Vanderbilt. The hostess received in a dark blue chiffon long with a low back decollete. Mrs. John R. Drexel wore a white Molyneaux, while the Princess de Bourbon wore white with a beautiful diamond necklace.

AT CHATEAU MADRID

Mrs. Drexel, Sr., was wearing emeralds that are said to have belonged to the Russian imperial family. Madame Le Riviere, the former Dolores de Yturbe, was in cream white crepe de chine with ropes of pearls. The Countess Sausten de la Rochefaucauld was in a blue chiffon and carried a large ostrich fan to match.

The hot weather intensifies the popularity of the resorts in the Bois de Boulogne. The Chateau Madrid is among those drawing a brilliant crowd arrayed in brilliant clothes. Mrs. Walter E. Edge, wife of the American ambassador, was seen in soft beige, wearing a horsehair hat with a beige crown. Madame Martinez de Hoz also wore beige with a large orange colored hat trimmed at the back of the brim with a circlet of orange aigrettes.

The Hon. Mrs. Charles Winn, the former Katheron von Heukelom, was in a chiffon of deep blue and red mixture, with a bright blue straw hat trimmed with bright red velvet ribbon. Mrs. Charles B. Alexander was in a printed beige and brown chiffon adorned with pearls.

TWO WEDDINGS

Mrs. Wilson Pritchett wore a new model beige chiffon with many flounces, one flounce of deep rose being the only touch of color with her beige hat of new lace and straw. The Baroness Villiers Du Terrace, the former Ruth King, was in a popular printed chiffon of deep orchid.

Two weddings featured the week. One was that of Phyllis Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster Johnson, of Columbus, Ohio, to John A. McVickar, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVickar, of New York. The couple met for the first time last December at one of the fashionable Ritz teas and succumbed to love at first sight.

The bride wore a beautiful white satin gown with a long train and veil previously worn by both her grandmother and mother at their weddings. The best man was E. S. J. McVickar, II, brother of the groom. The bride's sister, Miss Esther Johnson, was maid of honor.

The other marriage which received wide notice in the news columns was that of Rene LaCoste, the tennis star, to Thion de la Chaume, the golfer. The bride wore vapory white with a sky blue train carried by three small pages.

Carnegie Medal Sought for Girl

North Andover, July 3—The North Andover Chamber of Commerce, jointly with the selectmen, has applied for a Congressional Medal and for a Carnegie Medal for bravery for Miss Charlotte Broderick, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Broderick of Stevens st.

Miss Broderick, who was graduated from Johnson high school last month, has saved two lives in Stevens' Pond, which is near her home.

Coolidge Observes Birthday on Fourth

Northampton, July 3—Calvin Coolidge has made no particular plans for July 4, which will also mark his 58th birthday, and presumably will spend the day quietly at his new residence, The Beeches.

Miss Mae Hayes, his secretary, stated that the ex-President had decided not to attend the centennial of the E. and T. Fairbanks Co. at St. Johnsbury, Vt., Friday and Saturday.

Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs Distributes Information to Visitors

By NANCY BREWSTER

As its only activity during the summer, the Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs is maintaining a hostess bureau of information for visiting club women at the Young Women's Christian Association Clarendon st. building, Mrs. Willard D. Woodbury, president, announces.

Daily, exclusive of Sundays, from 9 in the morning until [illegible] in the afternoon some member of the City Federation can be found at a [illegible] [illegible] with calendars and pertinent information about Boston, willing and anxious to acquaint out-of-town club members with what's what in the Hub.

Mrs. William Mitchell of West Roxbury has charge of the hostesses, assigning a different one each day. Supplied with the necessary pamphlets by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the City Federation bureau is serving its purpose well as a clearing place of historic shrines to visit and trips to take.

Although not definite about the program, Mrs. Woodbury, who succeeded Mrs. Carl L. Watson, stated that the Federation would begin its meetings the first Friday in October, pursuing the usual civic and municipal welfare lines, meeting at the Y.

Women's Relief Corps Plans to Observe 10th Anniversary

The tenth anniversary of the Massachusetts department, Women's Relief Corps, will be observed by a reception to the department officers of the organization and also of the Grand Army of the Republic, Friday afternoon, July 25, at the headquarters, 18 Boylston st. The headquarters aides, of which Mrs. Louise Shapleigh of Swampscott is the chairman, will participate in the celebration, and are now planning a program of unusual interest.

Daily Antique
No. 136

Did you know that the ex-Boston police department [illegible] had one number—that [illegible] 1630, the date of the forming of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Here we show you one of the department's early badges. Some say it is nearly 100 years old. It is the property of John P. Barnes of 18 Gibson st., Dorchester.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Colors Glorify the Bathing Ensembles

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, July 3.

THE OLD BATHING SUIT is not what it used to be. Each season it is being glorified and elaborated until it is often now an ensemble of three pieces and sometimes more. The simple-life cult evidently has no place at the seaside, for we demand life, verve and color even in the outfit devised for the matutinal dip and the prolonged beach bask afterwards.

[illegible]

We do not know as yet [illegible] and [illegible] ensembles are [illegible] [illegible] seem to demand in every phase of life even the most [illegible].

The bathing ensemble sketched for this page is from Vionnet, who generally glorifies anything she handles. The bathing suit is of canary yellow hand-knit wool and over it is worn a wrap-over skirt of black jersey, with a yellow pleated fold in front.

There is a two-thirds length coat of black jersey faced and trimmed with the gay yellow wool and a corded belt of roped skein wool, one cord yellow, the other black, ending in fluffy wool balls.

Although one does not see so many printed chiffons as were customary last year, they are still plentiful and every couturier is careful to show several models in his summer collection. The mode here is from Lenief, who uses a print of large floral design of two tones of gray with touches of bright yellow forming the center of each flower.

The simple straight bodice is draped at the natural waistline and caught at the front beneath a buckle of gold and gray enamel. Folds of the material form a sort of hip yoke bordered with a circular shadow peplum. The wide skirt hangs in circular folds at each side and is very slightly shorter in front.

CANARY YELLOW hand-knit wool, over which is worn wrap-over skirt of black jersey, with a yellow pleated fold in front. It is a creation of Vionnet. The coat is two-thirds length. (Sketched in Paris.)

12th District Will Hold Conference at Needham on Nov. 5

Summertime is not a time for district directors, I guess, but rather an opportune stretch of months during which dates of district and presidents' and department and legislative conferences can be planned seriously and well.

For the 22 clubs in her 12th district, Mrs. Horace E. Gale of Natick, State Federation district director, has planned a district conference on Wednesday, November 5, in the Baptist Church, Needham, with the New Century Club of Needham as hostess, and a legislative conference on Thursday, December 11, in the Underwood School hall with the Newton Community Club as hostess.

Mrs. Gale is still arranging her presidents' conference which is to come early in the club season. Clubs which come under her jurisdiction include those in Ashland, Auburndale, [illegible], Hopkinton, [illegible], Needham, Newton, Newton Center, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls, Newtonville, Waban, Wellesley Hills and West Newton.

Woman Drops Three Miles for Chute Record

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 3.—Mrs. Rita Schoemaker [illegible] from a plane more than 15,000 feet in the air yesterday, establishing a new woman's record for altitude jumping.

In a cabin plane, the young broker's secretary flew upward until her fingers stiffened with the cold and her heart pounded in the thin air.

Then between 15,000 and 16,000 feet up she opened the door and walked out. A 10-foot rope was secured at one end to the plane and at the other to the ring of her parachute's rip cord, so the chute opened without any action on her part.

She floated easily downward, rubbing her chin which had been bruised by her belt buckle in the first precipitous plunge. She [illegible] after narrowly escaping [illegible] high tension wires.

Dainty English Quality Biscuits—
Now Americans no longer import them

THE traditional English "biscuits" are tender little cakes, made of selected milk and eggs, clear, amber honey, a variety of carefully blended flours, and enriched with nature's most delicate flavors.

Now they are baked in America by Weston, in English ovens, according to the traditional recipes. You buy them at your store for but a trifle more than you have been paying for ordinary "little cakes" or crackers, and for much less than you pay for imported biscuits.

Weston's English Quality Biscuits are offered in an attractive red-and-blue package called A Selected Assortment . . . also in a smaller package containing only the particular kind you favor most. If you prefer, you may buy them in bulk. Weston Biscuit Corporation, Toronto, New York, Boston.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rowes and Greta Towle are two star models being taken around by the noted fashion expert, Alphonse Courbet. Greta is a stunning blonde and something of a gold-digger. Raquel is a dark, exotic beauty who is arousing a sensation on her first ocean liner. Alphonse tells her that a very wealthy woman, Mrs. Dexter, is anxious to meet her. The woman wants to adopt Raquel's style of dressing.

CHAPTER 32

Raquel found a maid in black uniform with crisp garnish of white organdie waiting when she went to the suite to dress for dinner.

"You wish to see someone?" she asked.

The maid gave her a smile that was meant to please.

"Yes, Miss," she said. "You are Mademoiselle Raquel?"

"I am. If there is something you want——"

"My name is Frieda. I come from Madame Dexter. There are two of us, and she has need for only one. She has loaned me to Monsieur Alphonse, for you."

"And for Miss Greta too?" The question was both an inquiry and an affirmative answer.

"Madame did not mention any Miss Greta. She said only you—though I will be glad to help the other young lady. You see, I am to study your toilette, how it is done."

So this was the explanation for the maid's presence. She, Raquel was to be dissected. She was to be taken apart piece by piece, and put together again, on another personality. What an odd creature this Mrs. Dexter must be, wanting to sink herself in someone else.

Gets a Maid
Raquel Is Dressed

She found the jade green gown in the closet. The maid went about choosing her underthings without consulting Raquel in the matter. Evidentally Frieda took it for granted she was to use her own judgement in the matter. Unerring judgment, as Raquel came to know.

Greta came in, bursting with a juicy morsel of news. She had been prospecting again, and she was sure she had struck pay dirt.

"Gosh," she said, "it's no soft job, the digging a girl's got to do to get along. Dig, dig, dig. And just when you think you've hit a pot of gold, nothing turns up but a lot of sand. The boss I'm working on now, though, I got him all staked out for a real sugar papa. If you'll promise not to tip off Alphonse——"

She stopped, her slant blue eyes wide with surprise. Frieda had come to the door of the gray room to speak to Raquel.

"My high silk hat!" gasped Greta, "Look whose here! She's mine, too. I thought for a minute she was painted there. Sa-a-y, old dear, where've you been digging?"

Raquel laughed. Greta's slang, often incomprehensible to one who knew only the rough idiom of the border, never failed to amuse her.

"Frieda, this is Miss Greta," she said. Then, to Greta: "Frieda has been loaned to Alphonse by one of his customers on board. The customer has ordered some of the things I've worn, and she wants to know something about my toilette. Frieda will help you too."

Greta's amusement was nothing short of boisterous.

"That's a hot one," she managed between outbreaks. "Dearie, you're good. When they try to nab your make-up right off your shelf. Next they'll be wanting to know what you have for breakfast and who's your favorite movie actor."

A happy-go-lucky buccaneer, Greta. She promptly appropriated as much of Frieda's willing hands as she could get and sent the bustling little maid into the seventh heaven of delight by conferring on her before she had been in the room 15 minutes, a gold and platinum cigarette-case she had borrowed from some wall symbol.

"What do you smoke, a pipe?" Greta wanted to know.

"Oh, Miss Greta—"

"You've got a brother, haven't you, or a sweet cookie, or somebody?"

One Camellia
For Raquel to Wear

"You would!" Greta shrugged bare shoulders smooth as warm milk. "Well, send him that. Tell him the king of Roumania made you a present of it."

The steward brought two boxes to the door. One was marked for Raquel. The other for Greta. Flowers.

One of the delights of being a model, Raquel found, was that one was provided with flowers for every evening costume. At least Alphonse had so provided. He had seen to it that a selection of corsages was always kept on a refrigerated room, enough to last the voyage. The models had a list of corsages available. Until this evening they had selected their own. Tonight Alphonse did not trust their judgment.

His choice for Raquel proved to be a single camellia, the color of coral.

"It'd be a wow," Greta said, "if there was more of it. It looks kind of lonesome."

"You've got to hand it to Alphonse," she admitted. "He knows his toe-mah-toes."

"Doesn't he," agreed Raquel, surveying the effect in the mirror. Coral and jade. It intensified her pallor. Gave the luster of polished ivory to her hair and her eyes. Heightened the red of her lips. The perfect touch, the camellia, if there was just a bit more of the coral. Coral earrings.

She had them. In the small leather coin-purse she had taken from the cheap bag she bought on Sixth ave. Locked in the little compartment of her dressing-table.

His Creation
Alphonse Pleased

She took them out reverently. They had a familiar feel. They were really quite pretty. Dainty. How had her mother managed to save these fragments of beauty from the ugly wreck of her life? Raquel fastened them in her ears. Held them close against her cheeks. Poor Lucy. Dear Mother of Lucy——

Greta was extravagant in praise of the earrings.

"Some senorita!" she exclaimed. "I bet you could write a mean tango in that Spanish make-up. Hey, dearie, have you ever been in Mexico, down where the chili con carne grows?"

Raquel sacrificed a box of powder to the answer. Deliberately dropped it. She did not want to answer Greta's question.

Alphonse came to fetch them for dinner. Would he disapprove of the earrings? His eyes narrowed as he studied her as a scientist might study a specimen under a glass.

"You are as I would have you," he said at last. There was more than approval in his voice. And there was what amounted to worship in his eyes for this living thing of beauty that was, in part at least, his own creation.

"How about me?" Greta asked, swaying across the room.

"You have chosen well," he said. "The blonde is neutral, a perfect foil for Mademoiselle."

"I like that," Greta pouted. "A foil!"

Dinner had been served and the three of them were chatting over the food Alphonse was so skillful in selecting when he leaned, impetuously, toward Raquel, and, lowering his voice, said:

"Mrs. Dexter has just come in. At the table to the right. She is the woman you are to meet. The one I have engaged to aid in the redemption of happiness."

Pointers on Etiquette

—By MRS. BEECKMAN—

Hostess and Guest Wrong

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1. Is it proper for a hostess to tell an invited guest (at a bridge game) that she is rude just because when served with food that did not agree with her, the guest said, politely, that she could not eat it? The hostess claimed that at a bridge game the guest must eat what is served.

2. When a sorority gives an affair and the girl asks a young man friend to accompany her, who should pay for the ticket?

RUTH M.

1. Both hostess and guest were in the wrong here. The guest should have taken some of the food that was served even if it was not especially to her liking. We all must learn this lesson early in our social life, that we must not criticize our hostess that we do not like what she is serving. There are subtle ways of "toying with food," and these we must acquire if we wish to be a popular guest, and if we do not wish to give offense.

On the other hand, even if the guest does make it conspicuous that she does not enjoy the foods that the hostess serves, the hostess should make no comment on this fact.

In both cases, the least said and the least observed, the better.

2. The girl, who is the co-hostess on this occasion, should get the tickets.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers).

Plain Net and Figured Chiffons

By ANN ARDEN

(ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

AS THE very late dinner hour gradually gives way to earlier dining, and soft nights steal all attraction from stiff occupations indoors men will appear in easier dinner clothes and women be lovely in the chiffons and nets of the season.

* * *

NET AND chiffon is what the little dinner mode is made of, for the largest part at least. Seated at coolly decorated tables, the plain and print may alternate all around the board, for one is as smart as the other. There are degrees of chic in both, of course

* * *

A DINNER mode in navy and a modest cousin to the formal mode that stands above it. Both may use the same fabrics and colors. Yet the dinner dress is most readily distinguished by its discreetly covered shoulders or shielding details.

* * *

THE LOVELY gown pictured is of silk net in "ashes of roses" beige, finely shirred to fit the hips, and elaborated by lace inserts and exquisite embroidery. The bodice shows a very graceful bolero effect, and the embroidery is repeated at the front waistline, and the V neck. The skirt edge is finished in deep scallops, while a trailing bunch of hand-made flowers toned rose, yellow and blue, is posed below the right hip. Long earrings and necklace of pearls and crystals, and a rhinestone studded bag, complete this charming evening costume

* * *

DEEP rich colors are predicted for early fall favor. Eggplant purple is one of the colors. Going on in the vein of daring tabu themes cannibal browns are suggested. Brown and some peppery tinge are also excellent for fall. Reds, on the other hand, adopt an overtone of brown. Deep blues and an assured green are other colors that promise to be permanent.

* * *

METAL effects in fabrics are scheduled to shine forth in the limelight of fashion this fall. They appear in sheer materials, metal designs on georgette and chiffon and voile foundations being most frequently seen. This fact makes them more suitable to youthful styles than the heavy patterns and fabrics of other seasons. The patterns, too, are designed for youthful wearer

* * *

"LACY" bracelets of pearls and small colored beads have a delicacy becoming to the sheer dance frock. Because they are light, ons would as lief wear several as one.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs, or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American, or to the Boston Sunday Advertiser, or to Station WHDH.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mauve Decade Girls

In MY mother's time life must not have been very exciting but somehow, everything was so much more settled and certain—AND comfortable!

You had no soul-problems! And no inhibitions or complexes or domestic questions to worry about. Your place in the scheme of things was as definite and indisputable as your tooth-brush and your engraved napkin ring.

You knew that good people were good and bad people were bad and that a bad girl could do a mixed up about it. Sin was sin, a married man was a married man, Monday was wash-day, and Saturday was bath-night. And that was THAT!

You knew who was WHOSE in matrimony and you were not compelled to disentangle the same woman's past and present husbands to the same dinner party in order to determine the proper hiece or his ex-wife.

You knew that either you would be married by Thursday afternoon "At Homes" and be called fortunate or you would be an old maid and live with your married sister and be called "poor thing." So, you set out early to capture the husband you wanted and you worked hard to HOLD him and make him think he'd won a prize.

You had never heard of companionate marriage, feminism "living one's own life," mental cruelty, eugenic babies, down-payments, psycho-analysis, or swapping for the 18-day divorce.

So you never questioned life or God or man's superiority but just went your own sweet way through dancing days, your courting days, and your honeymoon, accepted marriage "as is" and grew old or fat without a struggle.

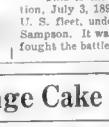
Sponge Cake Is Summery

There's something essentially summery about sponge cake, with its spongy lightness and its delicate texture. It's particularly appropriate for serving with the cool, refreshing drink or ice, associated with warm weather entertaining. The very fact that a sponge cakes lack the richness of the heavier cakes makes them the more delicious and attractive for warm weather. Why not have one with tomorrow's ice cream?



Martha Lee

Of course the first essential of successful sponge cake making is the use of the ingredients be of the highest quality

Pastry flour is good for any kind of cake, of course, and particularly for delicate sponge cake. That is unless you use a real cake flour. We have powdered sugar confectioners with our bread and pastry flour.

SUNSHINE CAKE

5 yolks of eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
1 tsp. cream of tartar

Beat the yolks of the eggs in a bowl, sift in them add the sugar, sifted three times, beat all to a light, lemon-colored cream in which the grains of sugar are apparent. Next fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten until stiff and dry with the cream of tartar, add the extracts and combine all thoroughly, finely fold in the flour, sifted measured and sifted again four times. Bake in a tube pan in an oven heated to 325 deg. F. from forty-five minutes to one hour

FLUFF CAKE

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup pastry flour
½ tsp. salt

Break the eggs into the upper part of a double boiler, add the sugar and salt and place over hot water on the back of the range, or just off a low flame, or gas stove. Then with a rotary egg beater, whip the mixture over the hot water until it almost doubles in quantity and becomes thick and creamy. It should set quite warm, but not hot during the beating. Add the vanilla and fold in the flour, which should be sifted several times. Pour into a greased and floured pan and bake in an oven heated to 350 deg. F. for about forty-five minutes. Ice with a thin orange confectioners icing.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

P. S. I've a collection of other sponge and angel cakes, from 2 to 10 eggs. I'll gladly send anyone who'd like it.

Women's Exchange

"Now that poison ivy season is here, why not talk to your readers about some helpful hints before the catastrophe happens and they haven't time to write for a cure? If any one knows that they've touched poison ivy and will scrub their hands or any other part with soap, lathered with good strong soap and hot water, the poison can be scrubbed away. But if it is left to the healing-out point, use a strong solution of sugar of lead—it is 10c an ounce at the drug stores. It's a poison, so don't let it stand around. Put this sugar of lead solution on the parts affected. It will dry in a few minutes—if the trouble is on the hands it is well to wear gloves."

So if this helps anyone, it is Mother Mine you must thank this time and not me

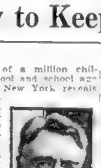
Children and Their Defects

Examination of a million children of pre-school and school age in the City of New York reveals the fact that in this city there are all too many children with one or more physical defect. Sooner or later, unless corrected, these troubles will grow greater and produce ill health and unhappiness for thousands of individuals.

On the eighth Annual School Health Day, more than one million children were observed for possible nutrition defects, defects of the eyes, ears, teeth and respiratory system. It is interesting to note that these examinations are to be speedily followed up with treatment, remedial measures and health education.



Dr. Copeland

Teachers will make use of these records in their instruction in hygiene. They will have thus a survey as a basis for teaching their pupils rules of hygiene habits and behavior. Clinic time is a splendid opportunity for hygiene and moral education among our young citizens there is no doubt, and much good must result from it.

Appeals are being made to parents for co-operation with the health authorities in remedying the defects reported. Unless these are remedied the examinations is useless. Parents should have their children treated for any physical defect whatsoever.

It has been found that 5 per cent of these children have one or more physical defects in four groups of 55 per cent had teeth defects. One in 5 was enlarged or gave other signs of tonsil trouble. 10 per cent were victims of malnutrition.

Just how much time people lose from painful occupations through some of these disabling illnesses is hard to reckon. Recent surveys show that among 37,000,000 earners in the United States at least 250,000,000 week days per year are lost. Among the 24,000,000 school children 170,000,000 days are lost during the school year. That are both helpful. Tea or coffee must be removed.

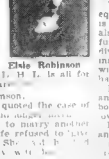
Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

What Are the Rights of a Wife?

What are the rights of a wife? Do those rights continue after the love, which made here a wife, has passed? Has a man a right to his free love when his wife has turned from him? Should the wife then give him a quit claim deed? Should she let him go and let him go to the other woman? Or should she hold him to it, whether he likes it or not?

Strange questions, but they are abroad these days. And Mrs. Elsie Robinson is all for holding em together.



Elsie Robinson

"Dear Miss Robinson,

"Recently you quoted the case of a husband who openly loves wife and wished to marry another woman. The wife refused to 'give him a divorce.' She promised to stay with him till death did them part, and objecting to hold him to that promise since she loved him even if he didn't love her." You asked for comments. Here are mine:

"Marriage is not exclusively a relation. It has a contractual status. And it is a financial, as well as a spiritual partnership. Why should a woman who has worked to establish a definite place in life for herself abandon that place to satisfy another person's romantic demands?

"When she took a man into her home and life and bore him children, she did not agree to any such thing.

You have a right to demand your equity in the joint property. That is law and good business. You may also, if such be your religion, refuse to acknowledge the fact of divorce in your secret heart and stand upon considering yourself a wife, even though your husband has gone to another.

I can't answer for you. You have any moral right to hold a man bound if that man has ceased to love you and desires to be released.

Husbands are not domestic goods and chattels—even though some of us have all the rights in human beings with an indisputable right to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

A man may be an incrate and a fool if he seeks his happiness outside his home, but it cannot be held against him as a crime. For love cannot be forced. Like the wind it blows[illegible] where it lists. And what can, or the Boston Sunday Advertiser, or to Station WHDH.

Heart and Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Like Petting

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 21 years old and I am having quite a hard time with my boy friends. I am a decided blond, considered attractive and rather popular with both boys and girls. I have been going out with a certain boy for quite a few times, and I like him very much. The last time I was with him he tried to pet. To be frank with you, I don't care for petting at any time, and I told him so in no uncertain terms. I let him know that I was not that kind of a girl.

Now he refuses to take me out any more, and I am very much afraid that I have lost a friend. Do you think that he will think that I am changing him? I do not intend to go steady with him for a long time.

Dear Irvie. If your young friend asked you to call him, as being the only way he can get in touch with you, and you feel that the arrangement is without loss of dignity on your part, then I see no harm in it. Strictly speaking, a young lady does not call a young man too often, although circumstances do alter cases.

Worth Trying!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have read your column over many times and now I would like to have some advice from you. I met a fellow not very long ago and I fell in love with him. He hasn't been taking me out yet. The night I met him he took me home and told me it was love at first sight. I was very much in love, but he has never asked to take me out. When I'm out with somebody else I'm always thinking of him. He has told others that he cares a lot for me. What shall I do to win him?

DEAR HEARTBROKEN.

Dear Heartbroken—Is "taking a call" the final proof of affection? It never occurs to him that you would like to see a show or go to a dance. Why not suggest it some time? I have known girls who work this very nicely. When the young man comes to meet them at the door all frilled up, and announces that it's too nice to stay indoors, and why don't they go somewhere? It's usually effective. Of course, if he just hates to spend money he may not come again. But it's worth trying!

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers on troublesome questions of love, marriage and the home. Write on one side of the paper only.

The Beauty Box

—By HELEN FOLLETT—

There is ever present the old question, "How often shall I wash my hair?" The answer is "Whenever it is in need of cleanliness." Only hair that catches atmospheric dust should be washed once a week. The thorough shampoo with rousing rinsings does no harm; it is a tonic. Dandruff, and stimulates the hair growth.

Tiny red scales along the eyelids are evidence of a constitution, that is not up to standard. Such a condition must not be disregarded. Often the eyes are weak, in need of glasses or special treatment. Any irritation of the lids will cause the lashes to fall.

TRADERS LEAVE TOWN

The market [illegible] to be [illegible] of nothing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to have been [illegible].

The market [illegible] the [illegible] clearing [illegible] the overnight [illegible] movement of $1,0[illegible] [illegible] in September [illegible] [illegible] constructive [illegible] found business [illegible] encouraging enough to warrant [illegible] holding [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] have held [illegible].

Most of the day's market activity [illegible] to represent [illegible] lightening of holdings in preparation for the holiday and bearish activity by floor traders who had no commission business to occupy themselves. A few issues broke rather sharply, evidently reflecting the lack of orders on specialists' books.

The day's news, such as it was, favored the bears. Announcement of a 10 per cent reduction of all salaries by Chrysler Corporation, explained as "consistent with a retrenchment policy which the current depression in business demands," was regarded in Wall St. refreshing in its frankness, and [illegible] an indication of conditions [illegible] in many lines. Spiegel, May, Stern and Eureka Vacuum [illegible] to the long list of [illegible] companies having omitted [illegible].

SOME DROPS RECORDED

The department of agriculture [illegible] that the price index of farm [illegible] [illegible] only one point [illegible] May 15 to June 15. A survey [illegible] the wheat situation from the [illegible] source, however, indicated [illegible] only extensive reduction of [illegible] [illegible] could make wheat growing profitable during the next several years. Wheat prices again [illegible] on the Chicago market.

[illegible] broke about 10 [illegible] a sharp drop for this issue. [illegible] Chemical lost as much, [illegible] dropped 4 to a new [illegible] for the past five years.

[illegible] included [illegible] Works, Consolidated [illegible] May Department [illegible] Eastman and Colgate [illegible] stocks as U. S. [illegible] Standard [illegible] American Telephone [illegible] American Can [illegible] to [illegible].

Covering of speculative accounts over the week-end brought increased trading in the late afternoon when prices were at the lowest. Case was off more than 10. [illegible] [illegible] Steel, American Can [illegible] [illegible] American Telephone were [illegible] [illegible] Pont [illegible] [illegible] another new low.

WHEAT EXPORT TOTAL IS UP

New York, July 3 (AP)—Export [illegible] wheat flour during the five months ended May 31 totaled [illegible] barrels, exceeding by [illegible] the average shipments for the corresponding period of the five years, it is compiled [illegible] General Mills, Inc. [illegible] company reports that its export [illegible] [illegible] 100 per cent [illegible] last year.

A pronounced lack of buying interest had the effect of cutting [illegible] prices to 11½ cents during [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] held the general [illegible] [illegible] at [illegible] New York and [illegible].

Commodity Prices Are Again Easier

Five groups declined and three advanced slightly. Of the total items, 49 declined and 16 advanced. The larger declines occurred in grains, livestock, foods other than fats, textiles and textile materials, metals and fertilizer materials.

Based on 1926-1928 as 100 and on 476 quotations, the index stood at 87.1 for the week ended June 28; 87.8 for June 21, and 88.5 for June 14.

BOSTON RETAIL TRADE GAINS

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston: Retail sales have improved slightly during the past week. For the month of May the New England department stores showed [illegible] sales were the same as for May, 1929, while for the first five months of the year they were 1 per cent ahead of those for the corresponding months of last year.

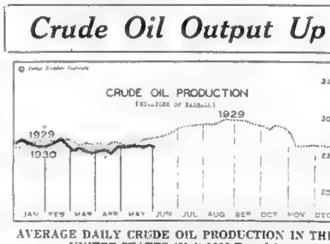
The Boston department stores showed a gain of 2 per cent. Gains were made in juniors and [illegible] ready-to-wear, women's and children's gloves and corsets and brassieres.

Total New England carloads in the first 23 weeks of 1930 were 390,121 cars, or a decrease of 10.5 per cent from the same period of 1929.

Cotton consumption which usually remains steady about this period declined about 10 per cent during May, and cotton receipts were the lowest during May for that month since 1924.

New England wholesale shoe concerns reported sales during May 18 per cent below those of May, 1929, for the five months of this year they were 12 per cent behind. Shoe production in New England at the end of May declined 9.1 per cent

Crude Oil Output Up



AVERAGE DAILY CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES (Unit 1000 Barrels)

By JOHN W. LAIRD
(Irving Fisher Service)

Crude oil production has been stepped up again. The result is that the large stocks of crude and refined oils on hand, amounting to approximately 700,000,000 barrels in this country alone, are sufficient for half a year of peak consumption.

Add to this condition the fact that improved cracking methods and the new hydrogenation process are giving, and will give, higher yields of refined products per barrel of crude, and the oil picture loses some of the roseate hues which it had begun to take on early in the spring.

Add, also, from the consumers' standpoint, that the fast-growing pipe-line network is, on the average, cheaper by half than the railroads as a transportation medium.

Firmer prices followed the emergence of conservation's champions as apparent victors in the fight for a curb on production. The temptation was too great for certain independents.

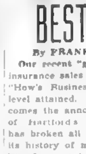
SALES OF LIFE INSURANCE AT BEST MARK

By FRANK H. MELOON

Our recent "graph" study of life insurance sales in Freling Foster's "How's Business" showed a high level attained. Supplementing this comes the announcement that one of Hartford's largest companies has broken all records attained in its history of more than 75 years. The June total was almost exactly double that of last June and $1,500,000 ahead of the best previous month.

Fully 68 per cent of the applications were accompanied by cash to put the insurance into effect immediately. The company officials say this is ample evidence that money is available for sound investments.

President Walter S. Wyman of the Central Maine Power Co. contributed another cheerful paragraph to the fairly numerous good second quarter of 1930 corporation reports. The second quarter for his company set a new high record for that quarter for all time in the number of kilowatt hours produced and sold.



Walter S. Wyman

President Wyman mentioning the fact that construction of the great Bingham, Me., dam as proceeding on schedule. The writer has visited the scene of operations and urges tourists traveling anywhere in the vicinity to take in the "big sight." Visitors are treated very courteously. Ample free parking space is provided. Bingham itself offers inspiration with its big-scale industrial activities.

It is generally assumed that in a bear market stocks pass from weak to strong hands. The assumption is, of course, capable of much defence, but is difficult to prove. Certainly, at some stage some stocks pass from strong to weak hands. In the current bear market, a phenomenon has been witnessed—a tremendous increase in the number of stockholders. This would be not appear to be in line with the popular idea. No studies of the relative financial strength of stockholders of 1929 versus those of 1930 will be available. Like many statistics, it is doubtful if they could be construed as of value if compiled.

The market value of 100 representative common stocks decreased $5,414,086,000, or 16 per cent, in June to $28,465,668,000 at the end of the month, according to Frazier Jelke & Company. On a percentage basis, this is the largest decrease recorded in any month since October, 1929. It brings the appraisal of the 100 issues back to a point slightly lower than at the end of November. The group is selling 34.4 per cent under the high on August 30, 1929, and 17.2 per cent above the low on November 13, 1929.

A generally lower level for wheat prices in the future is seen in the report by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture. While improvement is expected over the low level of prices in the past month, the report says, the present prospect is that world wheat prices during the next seven years will average [illegible] preciably lower than in the [illegible] seven years. The report is regarded as the opening gun in a campaign for an [illegible] reduction. The report declares extensive [illegible] [illegible] in wheat acreage including substantial reduction in cost per bushel, must be made if wheat production is to be profitable to growers generally in the next six to ten years. It says prices will, of course, be higher in years of short world crops, but in other years large world crops may result in prices even below present levels.

Any doubt as to the extent of liquidation which took place during the month of June is removed by the stock exchange announcement that its members' loans dropped $1,020,120,000 last month. This reduction amounts to 21 per cent from the total of $4,747,831,000 on May 29. In relation to the total, the June reduction is the largest for any month in stock exchange history, with the single exception of the $2,440,000,000 drop during the panic month of October 1929.

The drop in stock exchange loans last month was much greater than the decline reported for the same period by the federal reserve but the stock exchange figures reflect more accurately the liquidation of the stock market. Stock exchange loans are now down 56 per cent from the peak reached October 1, 1929, so that from the loan standpoint the stock market today enjoys a strong fundamental. The loans are the lowest since September, 1927.

Int. Salt to Show Gain in Earnings

Early estimates for half-yearly earnings of International Salt Co. indicate that, regardless of general business depression, this company will show greater increased earnings for 1930 than has been previously expected, Mortimer B. Fuller, president, stated today.

PRICES LOWER, TRADING DULL IN BOSTON

Prices moved to lower levels in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Early firmness gave way to lowering prices in late trading. American Telephone, American & Continental Corp., Boston Elevated first preferred and Venezuela Mexican each had point losses.

Kreuger & Toll advanced over a point. Old Colony Railroad gained 1⅜. General Capital was a point higher, Boston & Albany a like amount, and First National Stores was up a fraction.

Cities Service moved in a narrow range. New Haven dropped ¾. Anaconda, Eastern Steamship and General Electric each sold fractionally lower.

Directors of Union Cotton Manufacturing Co., one of the oldest, largest and most successful textile plants in Fall River, have voted to recommend to their stockholders at early date that authority be granted to liquidate. Mill is capitalized at $1,200,000 and consists of three units with equipment of 109,144 spindles and 3,030 looms.

Although official earnings figures for June of the American Ice Co., of which Boston Ice Co. is a subsidiary, will not be available for another fortnight, it is likely that net income will compare favorably with a year ago when net of $806,799 was shown after interest but before depreciation and federal taxes. This was the best showing for any June in the company's history.

For five months ended May 31 American Ice earned net before depreciation and federal taxes of $1,054,072, so that net for the half year should be in the vicinity of $2,107,927 a year ago and $1,607,551 in 1927. Owing to the seasonal nature of the business it is the company's policy to charge off depreciation and federal taxes only at the year end.

Unfavorable weather and an adverse competitive situation retarded earnings during the first four months of this year. Net income in each month ran below that of the corresponding period of 1929. In May, however, warm weather and an improvement in the trade situation resulted in an increase in net of 13.5 per cent over May, 1929. Net of $603,688 was also the largest for any May on record.

American Ice is now in its most profitable season. Under normal conditions earnings run at a comparatively high rate until about Oct. 15. A good start has been made this month. In July, 1929, net income reached $1,096,881, or the largest for any month that year.

Advice Is Free

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

SAVED $8000

T. T., Beachmont—I am a salaried man, with dependents. I have no securities, but my savings total $8000. I want to buy stocks or bonds. Please advise.

Ans.—Buy $2000 each Prudence Company 5½s and Steneck Trust 5½s; ten shares each Devoe & Raynolds first preferred and St. Louis-San Francisco preferred. The total cost is less than $6100 and you will get a combined annual income of $330. Keep the rest in the savings bank for emergencies.

WANTS STOCK

C. B., Wayland—I am a reader of your paper and have saved $4500, with which I want to buy dependable stocks. Please give suggestions.

Ans.—For a trifle under $2800 you can get ten shares each Bush Terminal debenture, Cities Service preferred and fifteen Allis-Chalmers. The annual income of $175 is 6.3 per cent. With over $1700 left in the savings bank you will have a fair start for an additional surplus.

FIVE PER CENT

T. C., Boston—I am a reader of your paper and own several good securities bought at your suggestion. Do you consider Texas Corporation a sound stock?

Ans.—Texas Corporation has an excellent record of earnings and dividends. Payments of $3 a share annually have been distributed since 1912. In 1921 and 1927 stockholders received 10 per cent extra in stock. Earnings for 1929 were $4.90 a share on 9,850,000 shares, compared with $5.35 on 8,443,354 shares outstanding in 1928. At recent lower levels the yield was about 6 per cent. You might buy a reasonable amount. However, don't overlook the importance of keeping a substantial cash reserve for emergencies.

Weymouth Loan Is Bid For in Boston

Weymouth awarded to Eldredge & Co., at 101.26, $120,000 4 per cent Bicknell school addition loan bonds payable 1931 to 1950, and $50,000 4 per cent fire engine house loan bonds payable 1931 to 1940, both issues dated July 1, 1930.

Other bidders were First National-Old Colony Corp., 101.16; F. S. Moseley & Co., 101.137; Estabrook & Co., 100.92; Harris, Forbes & Co., 100.83, and E. H. Rollins & Sons, 100.771.

Dividend Omitted on Spiegel Common

Chicago, July 3—Spiegel, May, Stern Co., Inc., passed the quarterly dividend of 75 cents on common due at this time. Regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on preferred was declared, payable August 1 to stock of record July 15.

Chrysler Cuts Salaries

New York, July 3 (INS)—The Chrysler Corporation has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent in salaries, according to an announcement made by the company today.

CURB MARKET QUIET ON EVE OF HOLIDAY

New York, July 3—The chief concern of Curb Market traders today apparently was to get through with the session as quickly as possible and adjourn until next Monday.

It was the quietest day of the year as prices moved listlessly up and down.

The drift was towards lower levels, largely because of the extreme inertia. There was further short covering and considerable profit-taking as commitments were closed out for the long holiday.

Hazeltine got about a point higher as the federal court returned a favorable decision on the company's radio patent suits.

Other industrials were irregular. Technicolor yielded a point or so and Fokker eased, while American Cyanamid B, Dresser Manufacturing A, American Tobacco B and Anglo-Chilean Nitrate worked higher. Advances, however, were difficult to hold, for most traders were willing to take profits quickly.

Utilities fluctuated narrowly and sagged after early firmness. Electric Bond & Share gave way more than a point from the previous close and was joined in moderately lower ground by other prominent shares in the group. Associated Gas & Electric "A" remained a firm spot.

Oils were quiet. Humble lost several points, but Missouri, Kansas Pipe crossed 26 for a fair gain. Cities Service was dull and easy.

Money was more plentiful and the rate, after renewing at 3 per cent, dropped to 2½.

COPPER AGAIN 11½ CTS. A LB.

Approximately 10,000,000 pounds of the metal were sold in the domestic market yesterday when some custom smelters reduced the price one-half cent to 11½. The reduction brought a demand from consumers for more metal than the custom smelters were willing to sell. Today, however, stocks of the metal were again available at the 11½ cent figure. The large producers held firmly at the 12-cent price.

The export price of 12.30 cents, c. i. f. European base ports, remained unchanged.

Insurance Sales Set a High Mark

Hartford, July 3—For the second time this year, sales of new life insurance by the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company have broken all records in the company's history of more than 75 years. March, 1930, with a gain of 62 per cent over March, 1929, was the previous high mark. June, with a gain of 100 per cent, has now taken its place. The June total of $12,563,000 is almost exactly double that of last June, is nearly $1,500,000 ahead of the best previous month, and brings the total for the year to date $12,000,000 ahead of the first six months of 1929, a clear gain of 25 per cent.

Remarkable, too, in the face of supposedly poor business conditions is the fact that fully 68 per cent of the business was received with cash payments accompanying the applications to put the insurance in force immediately—another record for the company, and ample evidence that money is available for sound investments.

Swedish Matches Imports Decrease

Washington, July 3—Sweden shipped only $121,242 worth of matches to the United States during the first quarter of 1930, as compared with $266,017 worth in 1929, according to a report from Consul-General John Ball Osborn, Stockholm, made public by the Department of Commerce.

The total volume of matches exported from Sweden for the first quarter of 1930 amounted to 12,221 metric tons, as compared with 9871 metric tons for the same period last year.

Bank of England's Reserve Is Lower

London, July 3 (AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 5,596,000; circulation increased 5,081,000; bullion decreased 545,000; other securities increased 18,085,000; public deposits decreased 9,834,000; other deposits increased 22,478,000; notes reserve decreased 5,612,000; government securities increased 220,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 40.02 per cent compared with 48.79 a week ago. Rate of discount 3 per cent.

Report of Savage Arms Co. for first six months of current year probably will show a decrease from corresponding 1929 period, when net income was $266,337, or $1.38 a share, on the 174,948 common shares after preferred dividends. This year it is quite possible the $1 dividend requirement for the first half-year will not be earned. However, since Savage has discontinued its discount to dealers buying ahead, this situation is not surprising. The arms industry decided on this change of policy for 1930, and, as a large part of the business done in the spring had been due to this discount, a curtailment in buying was reasonably in prospect.

The retail sale of sporting arms is confined almost entirely to the fall months. This year dealers have been very conservative in laying in stocks of arms, and supplies in dealers' hands are at a low point.

By the close of this month, Central Azuirre Associates, Boston-managed Porto Rican sugar producer, will have completed its best year from the point of view of production. It is estimated that the fiscal year will show between 124,500 and 125,000 tons produced. This will set a record, and the lower figure would represent an increase of more than 60 per cent over the preceding year's 77,669 tons.

General Realty & Utilities Corp reports profit before taxes for five months ended May 31, 1930, in excess of $2,000,000. This figure does not include determined, but unrealized, profits, which will come into income in the second half of 1930.

Based upon business which the corporation has on its books and unrealized profits to be taken later, President Louis W. Abrons states that second-half earnings will exceed the first half-year and net profit for the full year will be substantially in excess of that for 1929 when net profit for the 11 months ended December 31 last was $3,480,611.

INSURANCE

Group Life Policies Are Effective
Endorsed by Many Industries
Need for Extension Is Noted
1929 Claims Are $72,000,000

By A. Wilbur Nelson

Group life insurance through the test of years is recognized as one of the most effective and, at the same time, one of the most economical investments which an employer may make. An investigation made several years ago brought out the fact that a group insurance program adds but 1 per cent to the annual payroll of a company for a volume of insurance approximating one year's salary for each employe. Many employers are convinced that the dividends which such a program pays in contentment, in efficiency and in goodwill far exceed the financial contribution. When employes join with the employer in purchasing group insurance protection the employer's outlay is materially less than 1 per cent of his annual salary.

* * *

It is interesting to note the diversity of businesses and industries which have endorsed group insurance to their advantage. There are approximately 20,000 group-insured concerns in the United States engaged in 100 or more different classifications of successful enterprises and the total volume of group insurance in force—$9,300,000,000—protects the lives of 6,750,000 workers.

It is very interesting to contemplate the far-reaching effects of the benefits of group insurance. These 6,750,000 workers who are group-insured represent approximately one-quarter of the workers in America who are eligible for group insurance protection.

If it is assumed that each worker group-insured is responsible for the income to three dependents, group insurance as it exists today in industry does or will eventually affect the lives of 25,000,000 people—one-fifth of the entire population of the United States. Its benefits, therefore, are not confined to the plant or to the industry in which the worker labors, but they stretch out and reach into the home, which in the last analysis is the heart of America.

That there is a great need for the extension of group insurance among the working classes in America is established by an analysis of statistics gathered by a committee of the National Industrial Conference board, which shows that 16 per cent of the workers in America are ineligible, on account of physical incapacities, for ordinary life insurance. Much as they may want it, they are unable to purchase it. Therefore, group insurance is to them an opportunity. A study of the death claims indicates that 40 per cent of those on whom death claims are paid under group insurance policies leave no other insurance and little, if any, other assets at death.

In 1929 alone, death and disability claims paid by all companies under group insurance contracts totaled $71,000,000. In other words, nearly $6,000,000 a month was paid out in group insurance benefits. The proceeds not only protect the insured employe and his beneficiary but they make an economic contribution to the community and to a great degree render charity unnecessary at any rate for a year's time. The average group policy in force today is for $1500. It is steadily increasing due to the fact that group insurance programs are being extended and increased.

* * *

What are the most noteworthy developments in the expansion of the group insurance idea during recent years? The outstanding development is that employers and employes recognize the need and benefits of this form of insurance, as is indicated by its tremendous growth from a volume of approximately $12,000,000 in 1912 to $9,200,000,000 in 1930. Group insurance is accepted and is given consideration in the formulation of every well-thought-out welfare scheme. Who will say that it is not a factor of most importance in the social and economic life of the country?

Great Gas Well Is Hit by Shreveport

Philadelphia, July 3—Word is received that the natural gas well brought in last week by Shreveport-El Dorado Pipe Line Co. is one of the largest in the country, being gauged at 35,500,000 cubic feet daily. It is the only well of its size so close to a large city, being 17 miles north of Shreveport. Pipeage of this gas and transportation for ultimate consumption will be at very small cost.

FORBES WARNS AGAINST CUTS IN DIVIDENDS

By B. C. FORBES

New York, July 3—Cheerful declarations during the first half of the year, though falling far behind last year's, show a substantial increase over any earlier year.

B. C. Forbes

* * *

The writer urgently suggests to corpulent corporations that they go out of their way at this time to treat their stockholders generously. An excellent example was set last month by the American Tobacco Company; the directors announced their intention of declaring an extra divided of $4 and an increase in the regular rate form $8 to $10.

There are quite a number of companies carrying needlessly large surpluses and cash reserves. The smart thing for responsible boards of directors to do when pessimism prevails and when busines is temporarily quiet is, not to cut their dividends immediately and drastically, but, rather, to strain a point to exercise liberality.

Conservatism is admirable. But the ideal time to be ultra-conservative is during boom periods. The ideal time to be courageous is when prices are scraping bottom, when labor is abundant and extra-efficient, when pessimism stalks the land. When influential corporations add to the gloom by cutting dividends which could reasonably be maintained, they gratuitously add to the depression and thus make bad worse.

Why pile up dividend reserves unless they are to be used when they can be distributed to the best advantage?

Now is the time for farseeing directors having control of bulging treasuries to exhibit business statesmanship by doing everything within their power to bring about better sentiment and better business.

* * *

Just last year brought a record-breaking number of improved dividends, 233, a total not heretofore matched, and exceeded only twice since, in November and December. Last month's total was 139.

Against this there were no fewer than 45 reductions, 33 passed dividends and 19 payments deferred, a total of 97.

Were I to hazard a guess, it would be that coming months will bring, not more, but fewer reductions than last month.

* * *

The six months' record of improved dividend payments by industrial, public utility and railway corporations makes, all things considered, a creditable showing. Thus:

	Ind.	P. U.	R. R.
Extra	279	10	13
Initial	177	14	8
Stock	115	20	8
Increased	87	16	4
Resumed	20	0	3
Back	14	2	2
Totals	692	62	33

Comparing these tables with the first half of last year, it is seen that the railroads have made a better showing this year, that utility companies have about held their own, but that industrial and miscellaneous payments have fallen off severely. The 1929 comparisons follow:

	Ind.	P. U.	R. R.
Initial	341	21	1
Extra	298	9	9
Stock	113	11	2
Increased	110	16	4
Resumed	24	0	1
Back	30	1	3
Totals	916	61	20

* * *

	1930	1929	1928	1927	1926
Jan.	172	120	111	89	87
Feb.	117	126	98	81	72
March	161	169	99	91	102
April	93	159	70	60	60
May	105	166	78	58	51
June	139	283	163	137	98
July		122	93	60	34
August		121	108	63	57
September		193	135	101	83
October		179	133	85	69
November		287	153	126	103
December		291	227	205	184

* * *

It is to be hoped that stockholders will not be made to suffer unless no other course is feasible. It is manifestly the duty of every responsible business man to do everything possible to hasten the return of cheerfulness and prosperity.

BOND MARKET MOVEMENT IS ON UPSIDE

New York, July 3 (AP)—The upward movement of listed bonds continued today on the New York Stock Exchange. The market was quiet but firm and good gains were recorded as the demand for investment issues showed no signs of diminishing.

The feature of the trading was the weakness of the German International 5½ per cent bond, which broke nearly two points following dissolution of the offering syndicate.

The bond was sold down to 88⅛ and then rose fractionally.

When offered the loan sold at a premium as high as 1¼ points but during the past two weeks rarely has advanced more than ⅛ above the issuing price. The American portion of the $300,000,000 German loan, the first under the Young plan, amounted to $98,500,000.

Some of the gains made by railroad and utility issues this week raised them to within close proximity of the best levels of the year. Offerings of prime issues continue small and the demand good, apparently in anticipation of easy credit conditions throughout the summer.

New York Central 3½s rose more than two points. Albany & Susquehanna 3½s sold at a new high for the year. Canadian Northern 7s, Illinois Central 4s, Louisville & Arkansas 5s, Central Pacific 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s effected the best improvement. Prime rails held firm on thin sales.

The downward trend of the German bond was contrary to the dominant movement of the foreign group which has steadily improved this week. Canadian Dominion 4½s nearly a point. Greek 6s were active and firm. Argentine 6s were the firmest of the South American government.

GERMAN BONDS UNDER PRICE

New York, July 3 (INS)—The new German International 5½ per cent bonds, known as the Young plan reparation bonds, which were floated in this market by the Morgan banking syndicate at 90, sold under that price for the first time today.

Dissolution of the banking syndicate force dabout $250,000 of the new bonds in the market today and the best bid was 88¼, a decline of about 2 points from the flotation price.

The bonds were reported by the bankers "oversubscribed" at 90 and sold as high as 91¼ on their introduction to the listed market, but the winding up of the banking syndicate automatically removed the "peg" from the market.

Bankrupt Railway Line Is Auctioned

Chicago, July 3—Secretary Shearon of Midland United Co., acting in its behalf, purchased at auction larger part of properties of Union Traction Co. of Indiana, which operates more than 400 miles of interurban railways in central and eastern Indiana in addition to serving about 20 communities with electricity.

Union Traction Co. has been in receivership since Dec. 31, 1924. Last year Midland United made an offer to purchase bonds of company which was accepted by various bondholders' committees. As a result Midland United acquired most of these bonds.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, July 3—Cotton futures orders today appeared to be pretty well divided between covering and liquidation, with the market showing a fairly steady undertone. The new October contract sold around 13.04, with the general market ruling 3 to 9 points net lower.

Detroit Aircraft Sales Are Larger

Detroit Aircraft Corp. reports gross sales amounting to $972,000 during June. This report covers the sale of 49 airplanes, including five Lockheeds, five Eastman flying yachts, four Ryans, three Gliders and one Parks and 32 Bombers to the navy department. Commercial sales accounted for $159,972 of this total. Sales in June were $728,000 greater than the total of the previous month.

Putnam Bonds Are Bid for in Boston

Putnam, Ct., awarded to Eldredge & Co., at 103.13, $65,000 4½ per cent water bonds dated November, 1927 and maturing 1942 to 1948. Other bidders were: H. L. Allen & Co., 102.39 and E. H. Rollins & Sons 103.076.

CONGRESSMAN JOHNSON ON THE AIR

Congressman Royal C. Johnson of South Dakota, chairman of the House committee on World War veterans' legislation, will speak tonight over WNAC on the National Radio Forum program at 10:30 o'clock.

Following the veto of the original veterans' bill by President Hoover, Mr. Johnson introduced and put through the House by a vote of 365 to 4 a bill which for the first time sets up a disability pension system for World War veterans. Mr. Johnson, who is a veteran of the World War, also introduced legislation based on compensation for injury and disability incurred in the line of duty. The new bill will affect 200,000 men, and it is on this subject that Mr. Johnson will speak.

CONCERNING RADIO
Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Whether or not one believes in astrology, or that method of prophesying future events through one's horoscope as it is related to the stars, no one can gainsay that Evangeline Adams is not pre-eminent among astrologers, or that she has not in the many years of her readings foretold numerous great happenings which are pretty hard to explain.

We believe it will be very interesting to the great following of WNAC radio fans—particularly to the women—to learn that a series of broadcasts by Miss Adams will be heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock beginning this coming Monday.

With financiers of Wall Street numbered among her clients, and thousands of letters deluging her Carnegie Hall, New York, studio every week, Miss Adams has won the reputation of being extremely able in interpreting the stars, a reputation which has won her fame and fortune. And she made her start to that position in Boston.

Over the radio, Miss Adams gives a resume of the potentialities of the next two days, so that listeners-in may plan their affairs accordingly, and also answers inquiries that have general interest. Several times since her microphone debut she has accurately predicted coming events.

It is worthy of note that Miss Adams is a descendant of the Adams family which gave two Presidents to the United States.

The charm of the immortal Caruso recently was recalled by Marie Cahill, whose Cahillogues program has been added to the NBC schedule. On a visit to Paris some years ago, Miss Cahill was in the brilliantly lighted lobby of the Comedie Francais one evening. Someone presented Caruso to Miss Cahill.

"You need not tell me who Miss Cahill is," the great tenor said graciously. "Everybody knows the singer of the "Bamboo Tree."

Kissing her hand he added, "I have heard you many times and in return for the pleasure you have given me I'm going to send you my version in French of that song."

He did, and that sheet of music is now one of Miss Cahill's most prized possessions.

John Shepard, 3rd, executive in charge of the Shepard Stores Station WNAC, announced yesterday the completion of negotiations by which the programs of Charles R. Hector's 22-piece augmented orchestra will be broadcast through Station WORC in Worcester from 9 to 10 a. m., and 5 to 6:30 p. m. daily except Sunday. This new arrangement will become effective July 15.

Fred Hoey's broadcasts of the baseball games in Boston will also be given to the Worcester radio audience through WORC, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Mr. Shepard states that starting Sunday, July 20, the Catholic Truth Period broadcasts, a regular Sunday afternoon feature of the WNAC program, will be broadcast through the Worcester station WORC, and WLBZ in Bangor. These programs will be heard every Sunday at 1 o'clock.

Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, displaced the Nit Wits recently to broadcast a talk on the tariff over the Columbia network. When he was told that the Nit Wit's hour had been cancelled, he said:

ADDED to the fascinating and captivating melodies of the South, Willard Robison's Maxwell House Ensemble will play two outstanding numbers from New York stage hits tonight on WBZA at 9:30. They will play "A City Called Heaven," from the Pulitzer prize show, "Green Pastures," and "Too, Too Divine," from "Garrick Gaieties." And that isn't all. Ferdie Grofe, Paul Whiteman's arranger, has touched up "Three Shades of Blue," and Robison, the "blues specialist," will sing "Indigo" from that suite. The rest of the program will loll through a number of lesser known Southern songs.

THERE'S ONE BORN every minute, etc. It's P. T. Barnum's 120th anniversary, and the Arco Birthday Party over WEEI at 9 will pay him tribute with a short sketch. Circus music will be played and then the string ensemble will present a group of Stephen Foster melodies.

Major Kingsford-Smith, or rather Flight-Commander Kingsford-Smith if you please, from Chicago, by means of a delightful accent and a facile radio voice, conveyed a greeting marked by modesty. He merely introduced his pals and thanked America, then concluded with a story or two. He said he was nervous speaking over the radio. That may be, but the way he recorded could win him a star announcer's job very easily. This was on the Mobiloil program, and the orchestra, with the ever-welcome Nat Shilkret conducting, did full justice to the beautiful "Polonaise," from Mignon. The mark of distinction about this orchestra is its unity, yet one can always hear the individual instruments as they record their individual interpretation of music.

"If we try to rouse her from the semi-coma into which she falls, she gets violent. It is lack of rest, topped by an encounter with a stretcher case who ripped his bandages away and had practically no face. Last week even Tosh got the wind up and brought Commandant.

The Bug was sitting up screaming about men with no faces when Commandant stalked in in her God-almighty way and ordered her to stop this nonsense immediately with the result that The Bug wrenched herself free; flew outside, started up her bus and was off like a rocket into the darkness before one could say knife. Luckily Tosh caught her up about a mile down the road.

She says it was ghastly, racing neck and neck on a pitch-black night with The Bug yelling like a raving lunatic, but at last she got ahead, skidded completely around, switched her heads on, and took a chance of The Bug's driving sense making her jam on the brakes—which happened—but it was a nasty chance to take.

Dragging The Bug off her bus and getting her back was fairly easy, as The Bug is small and Tosh is hefty, and by the time they returned Commandant had the doctor, who jabbed a hypo into The Bug. She slept through three convoys and awakened, totally oblivious of what had occurred, as fresh as a daisy.

But did this teach Mrs. Itch a lesson? Not at all. Seeing The Bug to outward appearances quite normal she made her clean the W. C. while we others were resting.

This persecution of The Bug began three weeks ago. The dissatisfaction and unrest in the convoy had at last penetrated to the office and Commandant spoke to us after roll-call. There were traitors in the camp—the work was hard but we had not come to France to slack but to help our brave soldiers to fight for world freedom — the usual clap-trap, before breakfast too—were we women of England to be branded by future generations as lead-swingers?

She then waited for the applause. It did not come.

Oh, that was it, was it?—an evil influence at work — some failure who was returning like the coward she was trying to undermine the morals of the convoy first, resenting those others who would stay and see their duty through. . .

"If you mean me," said a 'Seeing-Francer,' stepping forward, "I am going back before you kill me. And as I return tonight I can speak without being given a senseless punishment duty in addition to working about 20 hours a day. Feed your drivers and treat them like human beings. When they are trying to snatch a few minutes' rest stop blowing your whistle. And have some strong working women brought to France and paid to do the housework and the cleaning of the ambulances while the drivers get some sleep. The food is not fit for pigs to eat. It stinks."

"But it still stinks," replied the 'Seeing-Francer,' "and it isn't good enough for me. And I intend to complain to headquarters in London."

"I eat the food," said Commandant stubbornly. "Don't forget to tell headquarters that."

Which is quite true. She does. The trouble is, we do not all possess iron stomachs like her.

"And do you clean the filth out of your own 'ambulance?'" asked the 'Seeing Francer?' "No. If you did we'd hear a different story. As it is, you deliberately trap girls into petty disobediences to get it done for you."

We nearly cheered her for this, but Commandant ignored it absolutely.

"Any more complaints?" she inquired, and to our astonishment The Bug spoke up.

In her quiet voice she suggested that in the face of these extra convoys and evacuations there should be no punishment duties in order that the drivers could sleep, that the outside polishing of ambulances be discontinued and the 7.30 roll-call abolished.

To wake drivers who had been out all night and expect them to be neatly dressed for a 7:30 roll-call was rather ridiculous. It was the "rather ridiculous" that got Commandant's back up. Her cold eyes narrowed.

"God help The Bug from now on," whispered Tosh.

"I am in charge of this convoy and while I am in charge the ambulances will reflect credit on it. Punishments will continue when conduct merits them and as for the 7:30 roll-call, may I remind the drivers we are on active service with the B. E. F.?"

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Our Patriot Forefathers Declared Our Independence 154 Years Ago; Are We Ready Now to Endanger This Freedom by Entangling Alliances?

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FOUR YEARS AGO tomorrow the Colonial patriots declared to the world the most significant charter of liberty which even bold men have ever had the courage and foresight to adopt—the Declaration of Independence.

So intense was their hostility to tyranny and oppression, so devout was their desire to create a republic in which all men would have equal rights that they were willing to tempt the destruction of their material property and the loss of their very lives for the conception of their noble ideal.

It was another Massachusetts man, John Adams, who summarized their direful predicament when he counseled them all to hang together, else they would hang separately.

They waged a war. The diluted blood of inane pacifism was not in their veins. They won it, defeating overwhelming odds by fortitude and manly suffering. They gave to us, out of it, an independent Nation and they chartered it with a constitution in which the ideal of freedom and the right to pursue life, liberty and happiness according to conscience were imbedded.

The Nation built upon that sentiment of independence has pushed the frontiers from coast to coast. It has explored the world. It has brought relief from hardships to the anguished in every clime. It has inspired depressed peoples in struggles for similar liberty. It has established the highest standards of material living which the world has ever experienced. It has gone through and come out of wars and their post-climax periods of hysteria. It has survived the transient abuses of personal liberty and of corrupt administrations. It has grown to be a dominating influence in the economic life of the entire world.

The country has accomplished this marvellous progress in the short span of one hundred and fifty-four years. It has done so because as a whole it has steadfastly maintained "the separate and equal station" among the Nations of the world which the Declaration of Independence asserted and because it has been faithful to the warnings and brilliant counsel of Washington, Jefferson, the Adamses, Madison and Monroe, Andrew Jackson and Grover Cleveland in its international policies.

General Washington said that Europe and the nations of the other continents have a set of primary conditions which are different than our own and that while they could command our solicitous and helpful interest when sought they ought never entice us to associate in entangling alliances with them.

Patriotic Americans of the last century and a half, realizing that the greatness of America originated with the statesmen of the Colonial era and that the advice of Washington is as patent today as it was then, have resisted the periodic attempts to disparage and disregard the historic foreign policy which has made America great. The American public, with their instinctive sense for right, whenever they have had the necessity or the opportunity, have repulsed the ambitious coxcombs who would have us depart this policy for the gratification of their personal vanity.

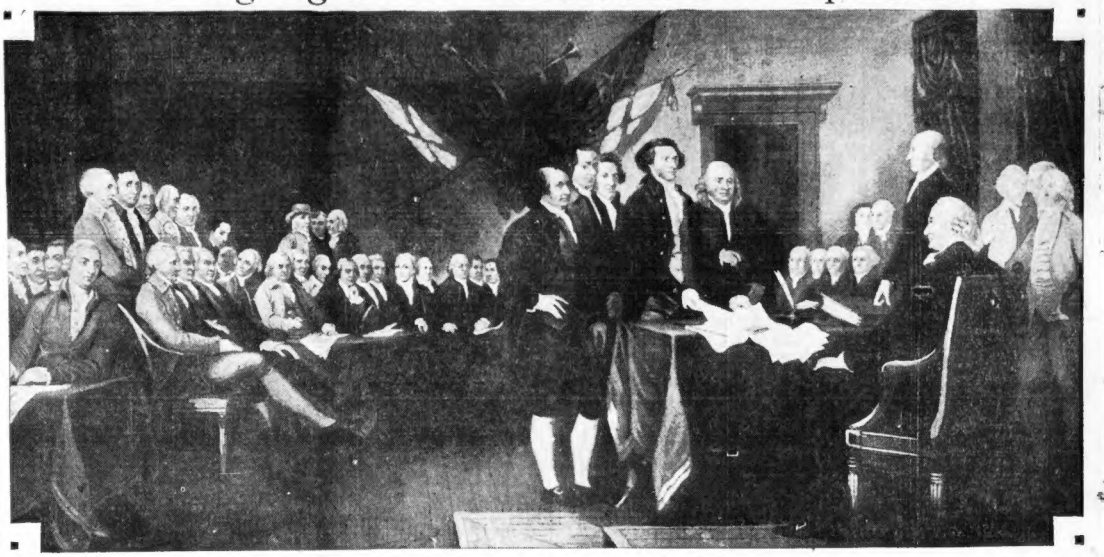
These crises will arise to confront the American people from time to time. We are faced with one today. We are sought to ally ourselves in a naval pact with an Oriental Nation to the West and a brutal imperialism to the East. We are sought to be dumped into the maelstrom of European strife and intrigue by way of the League Court.

Our need is to draw upon the inspiration and courage of John Hancock and John Adams and of Samuel Adams, Robert Treat Paine and Elbridge Gerry who signed in behalf of Massachusetts the Declaration of Independence with its precept for "a separate and equal station."

Let us not be casual Americans of the type described by the Massachusetts philosopher, "who, esteeming themselves children of Washington and Franklin, sit down with their hands in their pockets, and say that they know not what to do and do nothing."

Organize, as the patriots did. Inform your Washington officials by resolution that unless they abide by the traditions and policies of America which are grounded in one hundred and fifty-four years of experience you will consign them to the political oblivion which has been the fate of the faithless in the past.

The Signing of the Declaration of Independence



TO THOMAS JEFFERSON of Virginia, chairman and youngest member of a committee appointed by the Continental Congress, was given the memorable task of drawing up a Declaration in line with Richard Henry Lee's ringing resolution declaring "That these United States are, and of right, ought to be, free and independent States . . ." Adams and Franklin made a few alterations in Jefferson's first draft, and on July 2, Lee's Resolution was adopted by a large majority. Two days of solemn debate on the Declaration followed, and on July 4th, 1776, the representatives of the thirteen colonies unanimously declared them free and independent States, under the name of The United States of America. Only John Hancock, president of the Congress, signed on that day. It was ordered written on parchment, and on August 2nd, the names of all but two of the 56 signers were placed upon it. These two added their names afterwards.

McINTYRE ABROAD -:- By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, JULY 3—All Paris has gone modernistic with a bang. Every shop of consequence expresses the new art. New buildings of stone along the Champs Elysees are chiseled in the modern manner. That famed four block shopping area—the rue de la Paix—is almost a solid sharp edged glitter of silver and glass.

Thus for the first time in a century, Paris presents a physical change. "It never changes" had become axiomatic but you should see the old town now. Nothing has escaped the modernistic sweep. I picked up a pen in my hotel room this morning and it was beveled in the mode. I can't tell a hat rack from a chair.

In the studio attics of Montmartre there are derisive chuckles. For out of the welter of Futurism, Cubism and such that flowered in such artistic idiocies as "Nude Descending the Stairs" has come a sweeping innovation in furniture and decorations that bespeaks permanence.

Against my wishes I was dragged away from my sidewalk cafe sitting this morning to see a modernistic exhibit at the Grand Palace. I had all ready become a convert but the display more than ever convinced me that, like the auto, modernism has come to stay. It is beautiful. It is practical.

Even the most devout enthusiasts see the finish of period furniture and all other schemes of decor that have attracted their followings during the past decade. It is the devastating simplicity of French modernism that leaves its indelible stamp.

The most beautiful and useful desk—and I'll own it if I have to hawk naughty postcards to raise the money—consisted of three sheets of exquisitely cut plate glass and a group of short silver posts. There are no drawers but it is the ideal escritoire or I'm as fat-headed as usual.

At the exhibit was a Lalique glass table with glass legs that whooped up the appetite at a mere glance. There were beds and chairs of entire satin that lured with their exquisite plainness. For the first time in years of hotel living I have an insatiable desire to go in for house-keeping.

It is possible I may get just inside the Louvre which I have never visited. So far this trip my prowling has been mainly artistic. After the modernistic exhibit we enjoyed that triumph of Gothic architecture—Sainte-Chapelle. The chapel in the jewelled radiance of a summer day is breath taking. On the 1100 separate panels that form the windows, the Bible is represented, almost chapter by chapter, from Creation to the Apocalypse.

I tried to telephone Ray Long at the Crillon at noon today. It required 38 minutes by the wrist watch to get that hotel. At the end of another period during which I played tit-tat-toe with myself for three closely pencilled pages, I was told Mr. Long—the Lebanon, Ind., upstart—was lunching with General Pershing and could not be disturbed.

Paris clings to its historic past with its "faubourgs." A street may be a "rue" and then suddenly become a "rue du Faubourg." Faubourg means suburb and indicates the point where a street suddenly passed the walls of the city into fields beyond. The fields and walls have vanished, but the name remains.

* * *

Bill Hogg showed his Texas small town bringing up by starting out at sun-up to attend a French country fair in a nearby province. I hope some sharper lures him into the local variant by guessing under which shell rests the elusive pea.

* * *

The most popular of the sidewalk cafes on the Champs Elysees at the moment is a modernistically decorated place called Le Berry, where patrons sit under huge umbrellas. Business has swung from Foquet's across the street, but, as it does between Du Dome and La Rotonde in the Latin Quarter will likely swing back again. Paris is ever fickle. And Le Berry is cheaper.

* * *

La Perouse, on an ancient quay, where we dine tonight, is famous for its souffle potatoes. But I string along with Amon Carter of Forth Worth. I want to know first who blows them up before I eat any.

* * *

I called up the Hotel Napoleon, too, today, but my pronunciation of Napoleon was not understandable to the operator. "Napoleon, Napoleon," I repeated. "He was one of the local boys"—which I thought a swell crack. But she entirely muffled it and gave me the Hotel Nicoli.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

WHEN RED-producer and white-producer exist together in one plant the visible result is a blend of red and white. But this is only a resultant of two independent and antagonistic influences; the genes themselves neither blend nor contaminate one another.

H. G. Wells

When reduction brings the time for parting, each goes its solitary way, bearing no trace of having been associated for months or years with the other within the microscopic chambers of the cells. Moreover, it evidently makes no difference whether we use a red-flowered plant as our original male parent and a white for our female, or vice versa. In both cases the hybrids will be pink.

All that matters is the kind of genes in the resulting mixture.

A widespread and important complication of this scheme is the phenomenon known as dominance. In our example the joint effect of the two different kinds of gene, when both were present together, was intermediate between their effects when present in a pure state; pink is intermediate between white and red.

But that is not always the case.

One gene may be stronger, more effective than its correlative, and, indeed, such inequality of effect in the genes is the rule rather than the exception.

The former has an inherited malformation of the inner ear which upsets its sense of direction and sets it spinning around, sometimes for hours on end, like a puppy trying to catch its tail.

The first hybrid generation of such a cross will show not a trace of this waltzing habit. It will consist of perfectly normal mice, progressing with irreproachable directness, their inner ears admirably formed.

Nevertheless, they are genetically mixed, just as are the pink Four-o'clocks. Every cell in their bodies contains one "waltzing" and one "normal" gene. But the latter overpowers the former. In the next generation, obtained by breeding the first together, it becomes manifest that we have been dealing with mixed, hybrid animals.

We get three kinds of mice. There are true-breeding waltzers and true-breeding normals, corresponding to the reds and whites of the second generation of the Four-o'clock cross, and, corresponding to the pinks, there are mice like those of the first hybrid generation—normal in behavior and anatomy, but nevertheless carrying the "waltzer" gene hidden in their chromosomes and bequeathing it to some of their offspring.

This case is obviously parallel to that of the Four-o'clock except that here the hybrids are not intermediate, but indistinguishable in their characters from one of their parents.

In such a case as this the gene which wins, so to speak, in the hybrid is said to be dominant to its partner, while the one which is concealed is called recessive. "Dominant" and "recessive" are relative terms.

Wagon Wrecked by Perfect Team Work

By ARTHUR BAER

EVERY administration has featured its noble and altruistic Senator who radiated squawks under the title of Watchdog of the Treasury.

He starts on combustion, protests on suspicion and doesn't seem to realize that a scarecrow frightens no birds if its clothes fit tight.

We cannot tell who is the watchdog of this administration because they are all barking on one end and wagging on the other.

The graduating class of the 1930 Senate will launch itself into history as our most famous kennels. It disputed everything, concedes nothing and passes more bills than an Elk at a convention.

When the bills are all neatly crocheted they are sent to the White House for a little drop-stitching. There Mr. Hoover gets out his one-cylinder fountain pen and discovers that he hasn't got any more ink than a stuffed squid.

Mr. Hoover's veto average is very high. He is as fast on the senatorial buses that he has been known to score from second on a sneeze.

Why doesn't Mr. Hoover and the Senate get together and talk it over? The President is the first citizen of the land and there is no use trying to nose him out.

Law-making has not reached the stage where it is picking petals off barbed wire entanglements. This Congress will adjourn pretty soon for the same reason it met. None.

We thought the Congressional Record was a magazine until we saw the speed hung up by a Senator reaching for his hat, galloping up Pennsylvania avenue and putting a tick-tack on Mr. Hoover's window. That's the record.
